Business Men Held Enjoyable Banquet Thursday Evening

Members and Friends of Merchants' Credit Association Attend Annual Event at Golden Rule Inn—Fine Floor Show With Professional Talent Follows Banquet.

One hundred and fifty members and friends of the Merchants' Credit Association of Kingston attended the annual stag banquet held Thursday evening at the Golden Rule Inn at Ulster Park, and enjoyed the floor show that was given by professional talent at the close of the banquet. The annual dinner was served in the large banqueting room on the first floor of the Inn, and during the serving of the dinner the banqueters were led in the singing of old time favorite songs by Harry Tanner, who acted as master of ceremonies during the evening and told a number of humorous stories. During the evening Roger Baer and his orchestra rendered an entertaining program of popular music and played Baer's latest composition, which proved a tinkling melody.

The stag party was one of the best ever held by the Merchants' Credit Association, and Ben Suskind, secretary of the association, made good his promise that the party would prove a lively one without any speeches and with plenty of good entertainment. The only talks were those delivered by Mr. Suskind and Clifford Bennett, both of whom spoke briefly welcoming the members and their friends to the festivities.

Mr. Tanner, who was master of ceremonies, said he was glad to welcome so many of his friends. He said that he had a farm on the Southern Boulevard of the Ashokan reservoir. He is also a member of Kingston Lodge of Elks.

The floor show that followed the dinner is the same show that may be enjoyed the rest of the week, closing Sunday night, at the Inn, and it is well worth seeing, for all of the acts are first class.

The menu served the guests by the Inn was well served and well cooked. The principal item was turkey with the trimmings, and at the close of the courses cigars were passed and the diners lit up and leaned back in their seats to prepare to enjoy the program that had been arranged, and they were not disappointed.

The opening act on the bill was the Alvin Sisters, harmony singers and dancers, and they proved an attractive pair with pleasantly harmonious voices. According to Mr. Tanner they have just closed a booking at one of the big houses in New York and have been re-engaged to appear there next week.

Peggy O'Neill, a blues singer, who Mr. Tanner said was very popular on the radio, repeated her success last night, singing some of the latest blues songs.

Crawford and Caskey, a pair of acrobatic dancers, who have just returned from Havana and are to appear soon at Ben Marden's Riviera in New York, gave a display of acrobatic dancing that was greeted with hearty applause. Both the man and his partner were graceful dancers and introduced a number of new steps.

The last performer, but not the least, was Gypsy Rhoumage, who was said to be Europe's dancing and singing favorite. That was covering a lot of territory, but Gypsy proved a hit with her audience at the Inn.

Mr. Tanner then appeared in one of his own specialties which he had given with variations before the movie camera in California. He was costumed as the Old Soak. He gave a number of parodies of popular numbers.

The other acts on the program again were brought out in different specialties that made a hit.

UNEMPLOYED WORKERS TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

The Workers Cooperative Association will hold an important meeting at the Common Council chambers in the city hall at 7:30 o'clock this evening. All unemployed men in the city are invited to attend. A plan will be presented for adoption of a comprehensive nature to help the workers help themselves. The plan was submitted to the executive and ward committees by the committee on plans consisting of former Mayor Palmer Canfield, J. Philip Beichert and William B. Martin and adopted. If it is approved at the meeting tonight ways and means will be provided to put it into execution.

The Workers Association has established an office in the Cook building at 554 Broadway where members register for work and enter complaints. A committee consisting of Mr. Martin, Mr. Canfield, Mr. Beichert, Peter Fischer, Jacob Port, Ludlow Post and Philip Krauss met with the commissioners of the Work Relief Bureau yesterday afternoon in the city hall. The committee presented a list of cases where the workers claimed unequal employment. They offered the cooperation of the association to the bureau and requested that the boulevard and Foxhall avenue projects be expedited and started at once.

For Girl Scouts

Kathleen Norris will broadcast for the Girl Scouts and their friends over WHAP and the National Broadcasting Company, on Saturday, February 11, at 6:15 p. m.

Annual Convention of State Grange Closes After 5-Day Session

Geneva, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—The five day anaual meeting of the New York State Grange comes to a close here today with a record number of resolutions to be reported out of committee.

More than 200 resolutions, a record for the 60 years of Grange history, were offered for debate at this year's meeting, most of them favoring reduction of taxes and costs to farmers and opposing repeal of the 18th Amendment or a change in the Volstead Act.

Among the more important last minute resolutions was a proposal by Leonard Joy of Orleans county to authorize the state Grange executive committee to confer with Governor Lehman on a plan to postpone foreclosure of farm mortgages.

A statement by State Master Fred J. Freestone of Interlaken that the Grange would not give its endorsement to any individual measure was taken by Grange leaders to indicate that many of the resolutions dealing with legislative matters would die in the committee.

One of the closing tasks today will be selection of the site for the 1934 convention. Of 11 communities Buffalo, Olean and Jamestown were leading in the competition.

Proposes To Continue Operating Day Line

New York, Feb. 9, (Special).—A plan by which the Hudson River Day Line, now in receivership, might continue to operate and so prevent the loss of most of its assets by public sale, was outlined in a report filed in Federal Court here today by the temporary receiver, Alfred V. S. Olcott.

His plan involves the issuance of receiver's certificates which would have priority over existing mortgages and maritime liens. Two banks, said Mr. Olcott, have already indicated that they would buy some of the securities.

He would also, if made permanent receiver, discontinue the operation of one of the boats, which was found dispensable last year. The resulting saving would be $125,000. Other savings proposed by him would cut the operating figure down to $875,000, a total reduction of $390,000. The gross income last year, his figures show, was $1,228,283, or about $50,000 loss. The income has dropped about 40 per cent from the 1926-30 level.

The company was precipitated into its present difficulties, said Mr. Olcott, because the banks refused to grant a loan of approximately $325,000 this year as they had done each previous year to carry the company over the winter season when no boats are run.

Postal Route Bids Being Received

A notice has been posted in the lobby of the main post office that sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C., until March 28, 1933, for carrying the United States mails from July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1937, on the route from Margaretville to Kingston, 48 miles and back, six times a week. The route is by way of Arkville, Fleischmanns, Highmount, Pine Hill, Big Indian, Shandaken, Allaben, Phoenicia, Mount Tremper, Boiceville, Shokan, Ashokan, Glenford, and West Hurley.

The contractor is not required to transport other than first-class, newspaper, special delivery and special handling parcel post mail. Box delivery and collection service is not required. The messenger's schedule, daily except Sunday, is as follows: Leave Margaretville 8 a. m.; arrive Shandaken by 9 a. m.; leave Shandaken 9:15 a. m.; arrive Kingston 11 a. m.; leave Kingston on receipt of mail from train due about 1.50 p. m. but not later than 2:40 p. m.; arrive at Margaretville in three hours. The bond required with the bid is $1,700.

Blanks for use of bidders in submitting proposals may be obtained at the postmaster's office.

New Steel Door Erected at Jail

A steel grill door is being erected at the court house between the corridor and the receiving room where prisoners are booked on entrance to the jail. At night when the jailors are making their hourly rounds of the jail this door will be closed and locked to prevent outsiders from intruding while the receiving room is left without a custodian. When these hourly rounds of the jail are being made one man enters the jail after the door is unlocked by the second man on duty. By this method it is unnecessary for a jailor to carry keys with him while inside the jail. The outside man unlocks the door on signal from the inside man after the inspection is completed.

Two Youths Held In Second Lindbergh Child Kidnap Plot

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 10 (AP)—Charged with threatening to kidnap the second Lindbergh baby in an effort to extort $50,000, two Roanoke youths were held in separate cells today as federal authorities considered what action they should take.

Meanwhile at the detention home a woman, who one of the men claimed as his wife, was held by authorities to prevent communication with her husband or his companion.

A federal agent who conferred with U. S. Commissioner Charles D. Fox, Jr., and Assistant U. S. District Attorney T. X. Parsons, came from the conference with the announcement that the two men, Joe Bryant, 19, and Norman Harvey, 26, might be prosecuted under new federal kidnaping and extortion laws.

He said no additional charges would be placed against the youths, unless habeas corpus proceedings were instituted.

The arrests were made yesterday when Bryant called at a Roanoke bank to cash a $17,000 check which had been left by a police officer in a hollow stump.

Begin Inquiry Into Plot

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—At the request of Roanoke, Va., police, the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice began today an inquiry into the alleged attempt to extort money from Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh on threat of kidnaping his second son.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau, has ordered John M. Keith, special agent in charge of the bureau's Washington district, to go to Roanoke to take charge of the case.

Hoover, after talking with the Roanoke police, said it appeared that there was the possibility of a Federal charge of conspiracy to commit kidnaping.

The postal inspection service, meanwhile, was awaiting a report from the bureau of investigation after its inquiry as to whether there would be charges of using the mails to extort money.

REAPPORTIONMENT PROBLEM REAPPEARS WITH NEW BILL

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—The inflammable reapportionment problem, long-fought over by the legislature, reappears today in the form of a bill prepared by a Tammany assemblyman looking to a plan for reformation of the congressional districts in the state.

The measure, drawn up by Assemblyman Saul S. Streit, would redistrict the state in such a way as to give New York city two new representatives in Congress.

Streit issued a statement in which he attacked the Republican reapportionment move two years ago as an attempt "to gerrymander the entire state and deprive 2,000,000 people of their just representation in the House of Representatives."

The Republicans sought to redistrict the state by legislative resolution. The courts held however that the resolution was invalid.

LEGISLATORS AWAIT OPINION ON TAX PLAN

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10. (AP).—New York's legislators were leaving town today for the week-end recess and an opportunity to sound out home town sentiment on the Mastick $98,000,000 tax plan as compared to the Lehman plan for raising $84,000,000 in new revenues.

Between this time and next Monday night the law-makers will determine popular reaction to the proposals of the Mastick tax revision commission. The commission on Wednesday recommended a plan based on a one per cent retail sales tax, a $2 "filing fee" to be paid by all who earn $500 or more, a potential beer tax, a one cent gasoline tax and numerous other proposals for taxes on tobacco, soft drinks, chewing gum, business, admissions and other items.

INVESTIGATING FIRE AT ELKA PARK WEDNESDAY

An investigation of the mysterious fire which destroyed Mountain Meadow House at Elka Park, and four adjoining buildings on the grounds, Wednesday morning, is being made by the sheriff's office of Greene county.

The fire was discovered about 4 a. m., and the Tannersville firemen were called by telephone. Although they responded promptly, they were unable to save any of the buildings, the fire having spread so rapidly that it was beyond control.

Two Chimney Fires.

About 7 o'clock Thursday evening the fire department was called to the residence of Fred Baker at 33 Montrepose avenue by a chimney fire. There was no damage. This morning a chimney fire at 217 East Union street was the cause of calling out the department.

C. Fuerstenberg Dead.

City Offices to Close.

The offices of the various city departments will not be open Monday, February 13, Lincoln's Birthday.

Many Expected At K. Of C. Ball

The different committees in charge of the 14th Annual Charity Ball to be held at the new state armory on Friday evening, February 17, under the auspices of Kingston Council, No. 375, Knights of Columbus, are delighted with the response that the public is making in answer to their appeal for the cause of charity, and there is no doubt but that a record breaking crowd will be in attendance on that night. The patron list, as always, is considered the biggest item as a source of revenue for the charity fund, and this year the list is expected to be larger than ever, due mostly to the fact that the public realizes the great need for charity in these times, and that the charity fund of the Knights of Columbus is dispensed to all in need, regardless of their religion, race, or color.

The Knights in making this appeal for their charity fund through the medium of the charity ball are also making every effort to please the many patrons at the ball with an evening of excellent entertainment and most delightful music for concert and dancing. Furthermore, the large dance floor is in first-class condition, and will prove a real treat to the many dancers. Then too, a lounge room has been set aside to be used as a smoking room, avoiding the necessity of general smoking in the ballroom, thus assuring the patrons at the ball of a clarified atmospheric condition. The checking facilities at the new armory are of the latest and best equipped type. There is also plenty of good parking space surrounding the new armory which will take care of the many cars which are driven there by the patrons of the ball. All in all, everything is being done to make it an evening of pleasure for those attending the K. of C. ball a week from tonight.

Kidnaping Suspects Confess, Say Police

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (AP).—A detective's soft-voiced but persistent lecturing of a suspect about "treating an old lady so roughly" provoked a confession early today, police said, which cleared up the mysterious kidnaping of 65-year-old Mrs. Mary B. Skeele.

Police said the confessions were made by Miss Luella Pearl Hammer, 35, and W. P. Howard, 39, her "hired man," identified by officers as a paroled ex-convict from San Quentin prison.

Detective Chief Joe Taylor, said he, in a long grilling of Howard, was criticizing treatment of Mrs. Skeele, wife of Dean Walter F. Skeele of the University of Southern California College of Music.

Taylor reported Howard suddenly said: "We didn't treat her rough at all."

The detective said Howard then told a complete story conforming to facts already unearthed by police, and Miss Hammer, confronted with Howard's statement, also confessed.

The pair also confessed, Taylor said, to an attempt to abduct Miss Isobel Smith, Pasadena school teacher.

The commissioners award $7,000 for lands taken with interest from August, 1927, and $75 costs. An allowance of $353.75 is given Charles W. Walton, counsel for claimant. Robert G. Groves, county attorney, appeared for the county.

Weather Moderates In Many Sections as Death Toll Mounts

(By The Associated Press)

Mother nature today was tempering the Arctic-like thrust at the nation with moderating temperatures, as reports came in telling of an increase in the number of deaths attributed directly and indirectly to the effects of the storm.

Upward of 80 persons lost their lives during the unprecedented cold wave as the growing list of dead was received from sections which suffered the most.

Chicago counted a total of 22 dead as the city surveyed the effects of the coldest weather in 34 years. Ohio counted nine dead, with thermometer readings dipping as low as 14 below zero; Iowa, five; Michigan six, with a temperature reading of minus 52 in the upper peninsula region; Missouri, six; Wisconsin, seven; New Jersey, Kentucky and Indiana, two each; Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Minnesota and Nebraska, one each.

In the west and southwest thirteen persons were known to have perished since the storm began early this week. Five of these were in Oklahoma, two in Texas, two in Oregon, and one each in Kansas, Montana, Idaho and California.

Despite a slow but steady moderation in the icy blast, zero and sub-zero readings held good in many sections, with fire adding to the physical handicaps of the weather. Two women were burned to death in their homes in Wheeling, W. Va., and firemen in Chicago were called out to fight numerous fires, including a million dollar grain elevator blaze in the Goose Island district.

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY AT TB. HOSPITAL

For some little time the patients at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital have had no special help or training in the occupational therapy which means so much to them, in that it gives them something to do that is both interesting and in some instances lucrative.

Because of this it was with particular joy that the word went round that the occupational therapist sent out by the state department was at the hospital and would stay for a time and get the patients started in some new work. The only expense connected with her coming was that of providing materials for work as her salary is paid by the state. She taught the men how to do leather work and the women some novelty cross-stitch work on gingham. The Women's Auxiliary provides the material.

As the parts for the elevator are now at the hospital and its installation in the near future is assured, the room on the first floor which was planned for the occupational therapy work is also being put in readiness, and it is the hope of the auxiliary that they may be able to secure the continued services of a trained therapist without cost other than maintenance for a time at least.

JAPAN TO TELL LEAGUE "NO" ABOUT ATTITUDE

Tokyo, Feb. 10 (AP).—An official statement that Japan will reply with an emphatic "no" to a League of Nations' request for a statement of Japan's attitude toward discontinuance of the present Manchukuo government was partially qualified later today.

"Our negative reply is almost a foregone conclusion but we must proceed with the utmost prudence," said a government spokesman.

Foreign Minister Yasyua Uchida today instructed Yosuke Matsuoka, the special Japanese consul at Geneva, to submit the draft of his reply to the League committee of nineteen to Tokyo before handing it to the League officials.

Hence, Japan's answer is likely to be postponed two or three days while the cabinet studies the matter.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP).—President and Mrs. Hoover observed their 34th wedding anniversary today in a quiet way.

A few close friends were invited for dinner tonight.

It was on February 10, 1899, that Herbert Hoover, a young mining engineer, married Miss Lou Henry at Monterey, California. He took his bride to China and together they traveled the road that led to the White House.

Rounding Corners.

Rejected Proposal.

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Senate appropriations committee today overrode its subcommittee and rejected a proposal on a ten per cent cut in the $8,440,000 prohibition enforcement fund voted by the House.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP).—Treasury receipts for February 8 were $81,776,499.68; expenditures $104,208,116.72; balance $371,865,444.20. Customs duties for eight days of February were $4,670,448.26.

Democrats Move to Give Roosevelt the Power of a Dictator

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—House Democrats moved today to give President-elect Roosevelt the widest authority to reorganize the government, to lop millions off expenses and even to abolish major departments.

These powers would go so far as to give the new Chief Executive a free hand to slash veterans appropriations, cut down salaries, reduce subsidies and suspend public building programs.

Opposition to the plan appeared in the Republican ranks. Representative Snell, the Republican leader, said it would make Mr. Roosevelt a "dictator."

"It would give him more power than any executive in the world except Mussolini," Snell asserted.

Senator McNary, the assistant Republican leader of the other side, said:

"I don't think the Senate will go that far."

But House leaders disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt had asked for such authority, being willing to take the responsibility for balancing the budget by sweeping reductions even if it costs him re-election four years hence.

Sub-Zero in Many Sections of State

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP).—Great coats, overshoes and ear-muffs were the proper attire for upstate New Yorkers today, the second of the cold snap.

Sub-zero temperatures were reported from many sections of the state, with the lowest readings, 15 below zero, being recorded at Saranac Lake and Owl's Head, in the Adirondack region.

Jamestown, with an unofficial reading of thirteen below, was the coldest spot in western New York.

Ithaca reported 1 below; Rome 6 below; Auburn, Buffalo and Schenectady, 3 below, and Malone and Rochester, 2 below.

The western part of the state, upon which fell the most snow, was digging itself out today. Highways generally were open, and interurban traffic restored.

Passenger and mail airplane service was resumed across the state today.

At Buffalo, Richard Dalton, 67, died of a heart attack. He was stricken while bucking snow drifts on his way to work, and physicians said the exertion was more than his heart could withstand. This was the second death due to the weather. During the height of the snow storm, a man drove his automobile in the path of a train at a grade crossing, near Westfield, Wednesday night.

Howard Whittaker Was Badly Injured

Howard, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whittaker of 2 Converse street, is in the Kingston Hospital with a broken leg and a fractured skull as the result of being struck on Wednesday afternoon by a truck driven by James W. Folwell of 116 Franklin street. The injured boy was removed to the hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. LeFever. The accident occurred on North Front street.

Kearney Case Adjourned.

Army Head Dead

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Major General Edgar T. Collins, 60, assistant chief of staff in charge of operations and training at the War Department, died early today at Walter Reed Hospital after an illness of several weeks. His home was at Williamsport, Pa.

Library Closed Monday.

The Kingston City Library will remain closed all day Monday, February 13, Lincoln's Birthday.

Huge Grain Elevator Burned In Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Ice covered ruins from which clouds of smoke and steam still drifted today marked the spot where 300 firemen fought a million dollar grain fire throughout the night.

An explosion followed by a burst of flames late yesterday set off the conflagration in an elevator owned by the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation on historic Goose Island, northwest of the Loop.

The fact that it occurred on the coldest day in 24 years of weather history in Chicago—when the thermometer sank to 19 degrees below zero—didn't make the task of the 80 fire fighting companies any easier, as water from their hose fell and coated with ice the seven-story structure.

18 Aboard Rebellious Dutch Cruiser Killed Before Surrendering

Dutch Naval and Air Forces Bear Down On Fleeing Quarry and Drop Bomb—Mutineers Didn't Have Chance Against Seaplane.

Batavia, Java, Feb. 10 (AP).—Eighteen men were killed and 25 injured aboard the rebellious Dutch cruiser De Zeven Provincien when a naval fighting plane dropped a bomb on the ship's deck today, forcing the mutinous native crew to surrender.

The dead comprise three Europeans and 15 Javanese natives. One Dutch officer and one young Dutchman were slightly wounded.

The dramatic end to the mutineers' career came at dawn off the southwest Sumatra coast when a concentration of Dutch naval and air forces bore down on the fleeing quarry and ordered her to surrender within ten minutes.

The rebels, defiant to the last, flashed a reply: "Don't hinder us." They failed to show a white cloth on the deck awning, as directed, in token of unconditional capitulation.

The attackers' reaction was decisive. As soon as the brief period of grace expired, a warning bomb was dropped alongside the De Zeven.

As there was no further sign from the mutineers, down went a 100-pound bomb from one of a half dozen planes in an attacking air fleet.

It exploded with a roar on the cruiser's deck bringing death to 18 members of the crew and wounding 25 others.

That was sufficient for the mutineers who had been running wild for five days with eight of their Dutch officers held prisoners. The natives signalled their surrender and then took to boats as a fire broke out aboard the cruiser.

The attackers were prepared to go much further if the first onslaught failed, as several larger bombs, up to 400-pounders, were held in reserve.

Meanwhile the cruiser Java and the destroyers and submarines, comprising the pursuing East Indian squadron, watched from a distance, ready for immediate action should occasion require.

The fire aboard the DeZeven seemed to have done little damage as her wireless continued to work and her rightful captain, Commander Elkenboom, went aboard. He had been left behind in port when the natives ran away with the cruiser.

Elkenboom took command after quitting the government steamer Eradinus, in which he had been following the cruiser since Sunday. A naval escort was bringing him and his cruiser here.

A One-Sided Battle

It was a one-sided battle. The mutineers didn't have a chance against the seaplane. Although the cruiser's deck bristled with 16 heavy cannon ranging in size up to 11-inchers, it had not a single anti-aircraft gun.

Eight Dutch officers, kidnaped when the crew stole the ship as a protest because their wages had been reduced, apparently were not harmed.

The bombing of the cruiser occurred this morning off the southern coast of Sumatra, about 400 miles northwest of here. The cruiser Java, two destroyers and other ships of the fleet which gave chase started from Surabaya Naval Base, another 400 miles east of here.

The De Zeven was heading slowly back to Surabaya, however, as the crew promised to turn the ship over to the captain shortly before reaching there. They had left him on short when they stole the ship but he was reported master of his ship again today.

The commander of the squadron's flagship, the Java, ordered the mutineers to heave to and show a white flag in token of unconditional surrender.

When their curt reply was flashed back, he ordered a seaplane to attack. At least one bomb was dropped alongside the De Zeven. Then one struck the deck and the mutineers yielded.

When the crew of the De Zeven mutinied, one Dutch officer managed to escape in a rowboat. He said the natives were in an ugly mood and had obtained arms from a cache of rifles. Later a message from the natives said they had not harmed the eight officers who remained aboard.

The captain of the cruiser gave chase immediately. He kept close in the wake of his vessel but he was traveling in an unarmed government ship and it would have been foolhardy to challenge the natives. He maintained contact, however, until they were met by the fleet.

Sewing Circle Holds Anniversary Banquet

The parish hall of Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street was the scene for the 25th anniversary banquet of the Immanuel Sewing Circle Wednesday, February 8. A total of fifty-nine participated, being the members of the society and their escorts. They thoroughly enjoyed a tasty turkey supper. The charm of this memorable affair was enhanced by the beautiful color scheme which had been worked out in the decorations for the occasion, the center pieces on each table being pink roses and white sweet peas.

George Bode was the toastmaster; he contrived to introduce each speaker with a witty verse which he had himself composed. The first speaker was the honored president of the circle, Mrs. Lena Heppner, who thanked the members for their faithful cooperation; next in order was Mrs. Charles Petri, the secretary, who presented to the esteemed president a token of appreciation on behalf of the members; then the toastmaster called upon Mrs. William F. Buddenhagen, vice president, who would rather work than deliver a speech. Mrs. E. L. Witte, the treasurer, spoke on the finances of the circle. Mr. Bode now introduced Charles Petri, Sr., financial secretary of the congregation, who voiced the congratulations of the congregation. William F. Buddenhagen then thanked the ladies for their splendid repost. The toastmaster himself delivered an address on things to be thankful for. Finally he introduced the pastor of the church, the Rev. E. L. Witte, who spoke on the past, present, and future of the Immanuel Sewing Circle.

At the close of his address the pastor referred especially to the vice presidents of the society, who deserved a word of commendation. Mrs. Fred Wiedemann, who was elected as first vice president of the circle in February, 1924, and served until she was removed by death in 1931; and Mrs. William F. Buddenhagen, who has served since 1931. Letters of congratulation were read from Mr. and Mrs. H. Bruening, Mrs. Fred Wolf, Jr., Mrs. Fred Heppner, Jr., and Adrian Kaplan. The assembled celebrants joined in singing old favorite songs, accompanied by George Weil at the piano. All departed wishing the circle a long and prosperous career.

Says Dorothy Major Is Ideal "Rebecca"

Kate Douglas Wiggin's stories have always had a universal appeal. Among the most popular of them is "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," a story that is treasured by every little girl of Rebecca's age. Children are quick to recognize a friend, and Rebecca Rowena Randall makes friends wherever she goes. Grown-ups, too, recognize the sterling qualities inherent in this childish heroine. Thomas Bailey Aldrich called "Rebecca" the "truest child in American literature."

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" was dramatized by Kate Douglas Wiggin in collaboration with Miss Charlotte Thompson, and was first presented in November, 1909, remaining on tour that winter and opening in New York in October, 1910, where the play ran to crowded houses for an entire season. It afterwards traveled the United States from east to west, and was later presented in London.

Clare Tree Major's production of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which will come to the Broadway Theatre on Monday morning, February 13, at 10:30, was recently presented at the McMillan Theatre at Columbia University with the same cast which will appear in Kingston. Present in the audience was a sister of Miss Thompson, who declared afterwards that Mrs. Major's production was superior in every way to the original production and that Dorothy Major was the ideal "Rebecca."

Reserved seats, reasonably priced, are now on sale at the box office of the Broadway Theatre.

No trick at all

It's no trick at all to stand an egg on end. It's just as easy to see why we made Feen-a-mint a chewing gum. So pleasant even children never fuss about taking it for constipation. But the chewing is what insures even distribution throughout the system the way doctors say a laxative should be. That makes it gentle but thorough in action. Absolutely harmless, non-habit-forming and economical. At all druggists. Feen-a-mint

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Cleveland—A tough break for "highway Romeos."

The city council safety committee approved a traffic regulation providing: "No operator of a motor vehicle shall have either arm around another person while the vehicle is in motion; nor shall another person have either arm around the operator."

Then it went a step farther and approved a regulation making it illegal for any person, "adult or minor," to sit on the lap of any automobile driver while the vehicle is in motion.

Gay Havana.

Havana—The Cuban government may be in dire financial straits. But—

The department of agriculture has set aside $6,000 to aid Emilio Masnata in buying gay-colored fishes for the aquarium he plans to build.

Cold Warms Romance.

Chicago—Mrs. Rodney F. Allen was to have received a separate maintenance decree from her husband, whom she charged with cruelty, but her attorney appeared in court and said:

"My client doesn't want the decree. Her husband came over to her house and shoveled all the snow off her walks. She invited him in to warm himself and they patched things up."

Who Husks It?

New Philadelphia, O.—The unhusked corn in a field near here was the alimony Mrs. Amy Smith received when Judge E. E. Lindsay granted her a divorce from Loren Smith.

Innocence Triumphant.

Greensburg, Pa.—Peter Albert, of Jeannette, Pa., was acquitted of a charge of stealing $1.50 from the Caplan Iron and Steel Company.

Costs of $99.10 were placed on Westmoreland county.

Values Companionship.

Seattle—Max Ochinsky thinks his wife's "help and companionship" for a period of 16 days is worth $300.

Injured while boarding a cable car and incapacitated for household duties for the length of time, Mrs. Ochinsky and her husband filed a joint claim against the city.

Legal Solution.

Beaver, Pa.—Technically an oyster is not a fish, but selling oysters constitutes "engaging in the fish business," Judge William A. McConnell held in an opinion yesterday.

No Sun in Florida?

Miami Beach, Fla.—George Ade was late at his own birthday party Thursday.

More than a score of friends visited his home for the celebration at 9:30 a. m. Everybody expected was there—except the humorist.

At 10 o'clock, a door slammed. Ade, 67 years old, walked in apologizing.

"The sun always wakes me up," he explained, "and this morning there wasn't any sun so I had no way of waking."

Very Blue Note.

Chicago—A saxophone stood indicted today as the big discord in the late marital life of the Debits.

Of her husband, Herman, a musician, Mrs. Edith Bell Debits testified:

"He said he loved his saxophone more than me."

Judge Joseph Sabath granted a divorce.

They Didn't Hold Him.

Evanston, Ill.—The thermometer stood around 20 below when a man giving the name of Jack Frost applied for admission to the police station for a little heat.

Buzzard—80,000 Volts—But!

Egreville, France (AP).—A large buzzard, alighting on a high tension cable carrying 30,000 volts brushed a parallel wire with an outspread wing, electrocuted himself and plunged the whole region in sudden darkness.

LIVE BUSINESS MEN ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

FOUND
A QUICK, SURE WAY TO RELIEVE COUGHS AND HOARSENESS

No matter whether your cough is just an irritating tickle, or a hard stubborn nerve-racking bark you can relieve it instantly with this new quick-acting preparation—STOP KOF.

The formula of this astonishingly effective remedy represents the active constitutents of white pine, wild cherry, balm-of-gilead buds, blood root, sassafras, yerba santa and eucalyptus compounded into a syrup with sugar and honey.

STOP KOF acts instantly to loosen the germ-laden phlegm and clear the congested air passages, at the same time soothing the inflamed membranes in the throat. It is pleasant-tasting—children like it—and it is entirely harmless and free from narcotics. It won't upset the stomach or nauseate.

You have no idea how quickly and surely coughs due to colds and hoarseness are relieved after taking a spoonful or two of STOP KOF. Get a bottle today at your druggist and see for yourself how effective it is.

Fellow Citizens of Kingston:

MAYBE THE JOKE IS ON US! The word "us" is used because upon examining our personal expenditures we find that some of our money has gone out of town and we know this is wrong.

The political, social and financial activities of this city are almost entirely supported by our local business concerns. The professional incomes, salaries and wages of our people are almost solely derived from them.

A careful estimate proves that our concern would employ five extra men to care for our share of the business, which goes to out of town jobbers. The Everett & Treadwell Company would do as well. Add to this number the vastly larger group who would be employed to carry on business in other lines if local concerns were patronized, and you have a solution of most of our unemployment problem.

The contention is made that a man of Kingston looks as well in a Fuller or Fessenden shirt as in one from Troy or Pennsylvania; that as good a night's sleep may be enjoyed in pajamas made in the Baltz Factory as if the label read Paris; that our home baked bread is as healthful as out of town bread, even if wrapped with a fake bond; that a tin of Everwell or Lily of the Valley vegetables is just as nourishing as one bearing the label of an out of town jobber; that a Formost ham is probably more tasty than one cured in Chicago or Albany; AND—ALL OF THE ABOVE KINGSTON PRODUCTS COST NO MORE.

We know that some, through selfish and futile efforts to help themselves at the expense of others, will continue to buy out of town. The only way to the questionable intelligence of these people is through their pocketbooks, for their bank account is the dictator of their conduct. So to the many who will support our own city, we suggest that you insist upon getting a Kingston made or Kingston sold product if possible. A list of these items will be published in an early issue of this paper. Remember, when you see what you think is a bargain that your little saving will be more than lost in your tax or rent bill, if the profit goes out of our city.

United, we can maintain our personal and municipal economic integrity. Divided we who have will be forced to give to those who have not until all of our substance is spent. This is not an appeal to sentiment or a charity proposition, it is an appeal to common sense.

Sidelights on Game Law Trial

West Hurley—The famous jury trial, of the State versus George Bishop, held last Thursday night before Justice Charles R. Tiller, proved that not only was Mr. Bishop not guilty as charged but, that Aron Stoutenberg is related to Robert Stoutenberg; that they are on friendly terms; that Nick Rowe had to choose between singing in the choir or serving justice; that the ends of justice were supported by all who sat behind the long wood table; that a crowd of over 400 could be pushed into the Town Hall.

Before elaborating on these facts, the nature of the defense is worthy of some comment. L. R. LeFever based his argument on this celebrated conundrum, "When is a door not a door?" The preponderance of evidence proving, "When it is a JAR". So this question was presented to the jury, "When is a forest a woods"? and if same inso, "When is the woods infested by deer?" The answer by sworn testimony shows that a forest is not a thing apart from a woods when it has been planted with much blue Norway spruce; that it is not infested by deer when the deer itself commits a misdemeanor and trespasses. Under such existing conditions the right to hunt with a fit gun is undisputable.

Mr. DeWitt, the prosecuting attorney elicited the following startling fact:

Mr. DeWitt questioning Bob Stoutenberg, "Are you related to this other Stoutenberg?"

Answer, "I am his brother."

Question, "Are you on friendly terms?"

Answer, "We live in the same house."

Nick Rowe was called to serve on the jury in place of Albert Bruckner who was challenged by Mr. DeWitt. Nick's presence was needed that evening at the choir rehearsal.

The crowd fringing the long wooden table kept pressing it back inch by inch into the anatomy of the principals. This could be stomached but when Mr. Castle, the arresting officer sat upon the table the leg broke. At this time a mistrial should have been proclaimed for the justice, Mr. Bishop, and Mr. LeFever were from then on compelled to support the arresting officer.

To allow the jury ample space for deliberation, the judge ordered the court room cleared. So that 11:45 the crowd were turned out in the cold. It was here suggested that the crowd be permitted the use of the interior and the jury sent out of doors as thus much time might be saved.

The verdict offered at the stroke of twelve was received with a hearty cheer. The crowd then melted into the night presumably for hot cocoa and to bed.

RADIO ENDOWMENT

Walter Damrosch, who might be called the music master of American radio, has an admirable idea. He is pleased with what he has been able to accomplish for millions of school children, in the development of appreciation for good music. But he realizes that the maintenance of such work cannot properly or safely be left to any broadcasting company. Still less can it be entrusted to any advertiser. "Recently," he says, "I have visioned the possibility of an endowment fund for these radio concerts."

It is a noble vision, and one which in so generous and enlightened a country should be capable of realization. America is full of philanthropists and philanthropies. It seems a pity that some of the millions poured by Rockefeller into New York's white-elephant "Radio City" could not have been used as a permanent fund to guarantee a continuous supply of fine music over the air.

The plight of music at present is precarious. We seem to be in a transition period, yet the tom-toms and the crooners are still in control. Because low-grade, ephemeral music is popular, and because radio broadcasting is commercially controlled, grown-ups with musical taste are rather helpless, and children do not have enough opportunity to develop good taste. Where is the philanthropist who will rise to the occasion?

IRISH DRAMA.

In New York city the other day two organizations, The Fianna Fail, Inc., and the United Irish-American Societies of New York, protested to the Consul General against the Abbey Theatre Irish Players of Dublin who have been touring America since September with a repertory of Irish plays. Aren't they taking dramatic entertainment too seriously? The protesters assert that the plays presented malign the Irish people. They want the Free State to stop paying a subsidy to the Abbey Theatre group.

If the plays really malign the Irish people, one would expect more protests to come from the Irish in Ireland, where the plays are written by Irish playwrights, presented to Irish audiences by Irish actors and aided financially by an Irish government. The Irish players and the whole Abbey theatre movement have been highly regarded in America and in the British Isles as a true, native art movement. The leading Irish literary men and women of the day have given cordial support to the group and its work. The pleasure they have afforded and the interest in Ireland they have aroused far outweigh any criticisms they may seem to make of the Irish people.

QUALITY IN GOODS.

It is time, a careful shopper insists, to stop buying cheap things and to begin once more looking for quality. Cheap dresses may hardly be worth the labor of washing, or may stand so few washings that they are hardly worth the carrying home. Moreover, when the price is forced too low, the needleworker is getting much less than a living wage and the wholesaler and retailer are not keeping their heads above water.

Women whose husbands are out of work, or whose wages have been badly cut, have been buying very cheap articles because they felt they had to. But materials and labor are now so cheap that buyers may demand quality at moderate prices, and get it.

Moreover, when a woman buys a dress of a print so coarse that the grass could grow through it, skimped wherever she needs to move a muscle, ready to burst at every seam and to fade at every washing, she has neither comfort nor pride for herself, and she has a distinctly guilty conscience as to the woman who made it. Well-made things of good material not only last longer but give pride and pleasure. Honest manufacturers have been giving full value as always, but the last year or two have given a wonderful opportunity for those less conscientious. Women can have quality when they insist on it.

STABILIZED POPULATIONS

The English birth rate is dropping faster than the death rate. In 26 years it has gone from 25 births for every 1,000 population to 15.3. Since 1911 the death rate has changed from 15 to 12 per 1,000. With all the health gains made during the last generation, the margin of population increase has continued to shrink. Census figures show a beginning of the same tendency in this country. It has been said our population will be stabilized well before the end of the present century. A French physician, in a book about China, declares that the population there has become stabilized at a much lower figure than is popularly believed.

Perhaps the whole world is going to experience a population check which few anticipated a decade or so ago. It will mean fewer persons needing jobs, but at the same time it will mean fewer consumers. It may bring about a natural solution of many social problems, but also it may precipitate some new ones.

IS DIABETES INCREASING?

The question naturally arises as to why diabetes is more common today than ever before, despite the fact that insulin has saved the lives of thousands of children afflicted with diabetes, all of whom would have died without its use. Further, as many cases of diabetes are due to overeating, and there is less overeating at present than for some years back, why then should the number of cases of diabetes be increasing?

The Metropolitan and the other insurance companies explain the "increase" in this way:

First, there is more interest in diabetes now that it is known that insulin will keep diabetics alive, and thus the patients themselves and doctors are making known a large number of cases that were formerly unknown or not reported at any central place or places.

Second, physicians now more than ever are on the look-out for diabetes and are equipped to discover it sooner. More and more tests are being made in suspicious cases which result in discovery of diabetes.

Third, the great increase in the number of applicants for life insurance is revealing many more cases that would not otherwise have been so soon discovered.

You can thus see that there is really not an increase in the number of cases of diabetes but that an increased number of cases are becoming known which would have been overlooked before the discovery of insulin.

What about insulin?

Insulin is not a permanent cure, but it has been definitely proven that the diabetic today lives longer than before insulin was discovered. Insulin has made it possible for him to continue his usual activities, a thing which was impossible previous to the discovery of insulin.

Insulin has not only been a boon in the treatment of the disease, but it has stimulated research in all phases of diabetes, which has resulted in improved knowledge of the disease and its management.

"If one is fearful of the rising death rate from diabetes, he may be reassured by the presence in this country today of many hundreds of healthy happy active diabetic children leading normal lives through the aid of insulin, whereas hardly ten years ago the diabetic child was doomed to death after a few years of miserable existence."

PROSPERITY RULES BY LAW IN TONGA, PACIFIC ISLE

Auckland, New Zealand (AP).—Poverty is a criminal offense on the beautiful Pacific island of Tonga, 1,500 miles northwest of Auckland.

A compulsory prosperity law is in force on the island and it is regarded as a most serious offense to break it.

The prime minister of Tonga, Prince Tugi, who is also consort of Queen Salote Tubou, explained the system when he visited Auckland while escorting his son to Newington College, Sydney.

He says that the law requires that when a Tonga youth reaches the age of 16 he shall receive eight and a quarter acres of land from the state.

Eight acres of this he must plant as an insurance against starvation. The other quarter of an acre is a building plot in the village, and he has to put up a home on it.

When a man dies, the land reverts to the crown and is allotted again.

VALIANT DUST

by Percival Christopher Wren, author of "BEAU GESTE"

Sir Gerald Lindenleaf, Legitimist Royalist, flees to Spain from the French army by the discovery of Lieutenant La Roge of the Secret Service, has enlisted in the Foreign Legion and risen to the rank of Major. He has taken a detachment over treacherous mountains into the "hottest place on earth," the domain of the Sultan of Mekazzen. There they board a Paul, uncle Piccoli, dreaming of following in the footsteps of an earlier Napoleon, goes back for the remainder of his command.

Chapter 5

"THE LITTLE JEWELS"

SAID Sailor Harris, "Ole friend o' mine, the Sultan is.

"Bloke I told you about, Bob," he added, turning to Otho, "that day at the fair."

"I'm not likely to forget it," agreed Otho, "nor your message about 'Save the little Jewels,' as I thought you said.

"'Save the little Jules'," murmured Otho again, with a short and bitter laugh.

"Wot was that, 'Arris?" asked William Bossum. "You bin 'ere before, d'you say? If you bin 'ere before, why couldn't you say so before?"

"Ho, yus, before and be'ind. I didn't say before that I'd bin 'ere before becos we come some other way. But I been to Mekazzen before, all right," replied Sailor Harris.

"Well, go on, get it up," requested William Bossum, "and don't be so bloomin' 'aughty and mysterious. Anybody'd think you was a missin' heir or somethink."

"You'll be a missin' Legion-heir all right, in a moment," replied Sailor Harris with unwonted brilliance. "If you could close your 'ead for half a second, I'd tell you. Before I 'ad the misfortune to meet you in Tonbury, I goes ashore from off my ship in Marseilles and gets drunk. So drunk I gets that I joins the Foreign Legion, or else the Foreign Legion joins me. . . . I dunno. . . . Any'ow, my Section was garrison of a fort, and my escouade was doin' a patrol and got mopped up by some Beddoo blokes. Me an' my chum, ole Peer Legrand, is what they calls the sole survivors of the bloomin' shipwreck.

"An' these Beddoo blokes takes us along to Mekazzen an' gives us to this Kite for a Christmas-box or a birthday-present or something.

"Cor lumme! Rough! 'E was an ole buzzard. We soon wished we was back with the Beddoos. One day he took my poor chum Peer Legrand, an' 'ad him chucked off a tower on to some sharp 'ooks, 'arf-way down the wall. An' there 'e 'ung till he died. 'Ooked through the leg. . . . Upside-down . . . like a sheep in a butcher's shop. Kite Harem Abdul-ler Kareem. The dirty dog . . . I'd like to . . ."

"Well, how did you come to get away then?" asked Joe Mummery, as Sailor Harris paused to think of exactly what he'd like to do to the Kaid Haroun Abd'allah Karim of Mekazzen.

"It was his sister done it. Come down in the middle of the night to the dungeon place, she did, where I was chained up like a dog. Sez she can get me out and guided to a place called Tangier if I'd give a bloke there a message from 'er. Then the bloke would give me two 'undred and fifty francs for meself and see me on my way. Likewise she done it too. A dumb bloke, an' an ole 'ag, an' a black piccaninny. An' me in one o' their big cloaks like a great 'orse-blanket with a hood to it.

"Well, the dumb bloke gets me out all right and guides us to Tangier. And all the way I keeps repeating the message to meself, not knowing but what me life depended on it, yer see. The message from this girl to the bloke in Tangier, Seenyor Peteroh Mulleeny."

"Yes," murmured Otho. "Señor Pedro Maligni."

"What was the message?" asked Joe Mummery.

"'Save the little Jewels,' replied Sailor Harris, "'Gibraltar. England. Don't trust my brother any more. His wife has won. Give this man two hundred and fifty francs and send him over the sea. Peteroh's gazelle Elizabeth Ellen speaks. Save the little jewels.'

"Yes, that was the message an' I'll remember it as long as I live. . . . Elizabeth Ellen was the girl's name—the Kite's sister. Only she pernounced it like El isa Beth El Ain. Like that. . . . A lovely piece, she was, too. Cor lumme! . . . An' spoke some English with 'er French and Arabic."

"Her mother was an Englishwoman—Elizabeth Elaine Torson," said Otho, "captured with her husband Captain Torson, a gunner from Gibraltar. The tribesmen who captured them killed him, and sold her in the market-place of Mekazzen as a slave. This Kaid's father bought her—and the woman of whom Harris is talking was their daughter. So she is the half-sister of the present Kaid. Also half-English. . . . Poor soul. . . ."

"How d'you know, Bob?" asked Joe Mummery as Otho fell silent.

"Because the 'black pickaninny' who went with Harris and the dumb man and the old hag was her son, disguised. He was 'the little Jewels' as Harris thought she said—his name is Jules—and it was to escort, and to save, the little Jules that she sent Harris to Tangier. . . . And the little Jules Maligni, being safely handed over to his father, Pedro Maligni, by the dumb guide, was sent to England in charge of a Dr. Maykings and his wife, friends of Señor Pedro Maligni whom they were visiting in Tangier. Dr. Maykings, as you know, Joe, was my father's friend and doctor. . . . And 'the little Jules' married his daughter Margaret Maykings who, as you also know, was my—er—friend."

"Chucked off a tower—"

Otho Bellême fell silent.

"Rum world," soliloquized Sailor Harris. "Rum go. Fair ole pantermime. . . . Fancy the piccaninny bein' that girl's kid!"

"Yes," continued Otho. "It was Jules Maligni. And I have known him for nearly as long as I can remember. . . . I met his cousin too—chap named Raisul—son of the Kaid Haroun Abd'allah Karim. He was educated in Paris and Madrid, and he used to come to see Jules Maligni at Oxford, when he visited England. The Señor Pedro Maligni was the Kaid's agent—financial and political in general, and gun-running in particular, I believe. I expect Jules looked after the English end of it for Pedro—and Raisul looked after Jules. . . .

"I used to hear a good deal about Mekazzen, but I never thought I'd see the beastly country."

New York city buyers have a choice of about 40 different kinds of vegetables in the winter months.

Uncle Ab says that most of a man's problems are solved somewhere directly north of the collar-button and east and west between the ears.

Cod liver oil fed to hens improves the hatchability of the eggs about 10 to 25 per cent; milk, 5 to 15 per cent; and green feed, 5 to 10 per cent.

One hundred pounds of milk testing 3.5 per cent fat will churn about four and one-third pounds of butter, make 10 to 12 pounds of cottage cheese, or five pounds of plastic cream.

Thirty dairy herd improvement associations report that 3,782 unproductive cows were removed from their herds in 1932; this represents about 27 per cent of the cattle in the associations, and an average of more than 100 cows for each association.

A new Cornell bulletin tells how to make two kinds of one-man hay racks. The bulletin gives the bill of materials and is illustrated. Ask the office of publication at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., for the free bulletin E-244.

S. A. Martin of Kinderhook applied 100 pounds of 15-30-15 fertilizer on his pastures in April; rotated his cattle on small lots; grew rye, sudan grass, and sweet clover for added pasture. His pasture cost for 180 days was 59 cents a hundred weight of milk.

Boothill cemetery, appropriately named for the two score men and women buried there who died with their boots on, is located near Billings, Mont. According to tradition the cemetery was started when one man called another a liar in a saloon.

From then on until the last burial in 1882 pioneers of all types—peace officers, bad men, even women—who came to their deaths by violence, were laid to rest in the strange frontier graveyard.

The monument, shown above, was erected in 1912. It is made from small stones picked up from the burial ground.

There is no military command of "Right about face" in the United States Army. Although this is commonly assumed to be in use in the army, the command simply is: "About face". "Right face", and "Left face" are also used; but never, "Right about face."

How many leap years in a century? Sometimes 24, sometimes 25. Every fourth year is not necessarily a leap year. Years exactly divisible by four, as 1920, are leap years, except the last years of the centuries, which are leap years only if divisible by 400. The year 1900, then, was not a leap year, but 2000 will be.

PLAN FAMILY DAY AT REDEEMER CHURCH

Sunday morning the annual Family Day service will be held at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer at which time a special effort will be made to have the families not only come to church together but also to sit together. As upon similar occasions the pastor, the Rev. O. E. Brandorff, will speak on the home. His topic will be "Why Some Homes are Unhappy". # CHILDRENS COLDS

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID sold by all druggists that's guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

HEM-ROID tablets have an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when McBride Drug Stores invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles no matter how stubborn the case?

AMERICA'S 10 BIGGEST PROBLEMS

No. 3

Giant Industry and Government

What's Ahead For Industry?

The government's relationship to giant industry is one of the great problems facing America, but communism and fascism are not the only alternatives, says Prof. William F. Ogburn, research director of the President's Committee on Recent Social Trends. The problem is one of continuous adjustments, he holds.

This is the third article in a series in which Professor William Fielding Ogburn of the University of Chicago discusses what he considers the 10 biggest problems facing America.

By WILLIAM FIELDING OGBURN
Research Director, President's Committee On Recent Social Trends
(Written For The Associated Press)

The next battleground will not be on the Marne or in the Philippines. The great issues of the future—greater in significance than the wars of nations—will be fought out between the forces of government and the forces of private industry.

No blood is likely to be spilt, however. For the further away from poverty we get the less is the danger of revolution, bloody or otherwise. The weapons will be of the type of the ballot box, and printed page, television and talking books. The methods those of the advertiser and the lobbyist.

The probability is that many of the struggles will be very bitter. Our lesson from the past points this way.

New Issues Complex

Not all of the issues will be like those of Muscle Shoals or the regulation of the railroads. The issues will not be so simple as a line between public and private interests.

Public interest and private interest are often the same as in the government's relation to currency. A regulated flow of credit is to the interest of both. Government can help in the eradication of depressions.

The setting which Karl Marx or our own progressives gave to these issues is changing. This is particularly true of the idea of property.

In agricultural times property meant ownership of a farm, daily management of it, and the enjoyment of its fruits amid the sentiment of home life. Property today means shares of stock and dividends but not management.

Technology Holds Hope

So also, today, appropriations of somebody else's wealth or governmental ownership are not the only ways of raising the standard of living. Technology and management hold out new hopes. A high standard of living in the future would change the picture.

The relationships of government and business are more complex now. The problem is one of continuous series of adjustments. Communism and fascism are not the only alternatives.

Some of the factors involved are the public utility idea, regulation, co-operation, elimination of profits, price fixing, dictatorship, balance of powers, social services, taxation, grants in aid, etc. These can obviously be combined in various ways in different fields at different times.

Old Institutions Wane

That this is the arena for the greatest issues before our nation can be said with assurance. In earlier times the two great institutions, the family and church, dominated the activities of mankind. Wages, profits, production, consumption were under the family.

The church was a part of the state, dominated international relations, fostered education, sponsored art, and often practised healing.

But as these two institutions declined in influence, two others—the government and industry—grew in power, and controlled more and more of man's behavior.

Before the World War the question was "can government and industry each go its own way alone?"

That question of the future is, what will the relationship be?

TOMORROW: "Good Government—How To Get It?" The role of government, whether we like it or not, has been growing through hard times and good. Its services for the citizens of our Democracy are many and varied. It not only protects us with armies and police, but it gives us education, recreation and at times houses and feeds us. How efficiently the government runs its business is of immense importance not only to the taxpayer, but to everyone, and Prof. Ogburn discusses this problem in his next article.

HOMESPUN YARN

To make a child fearless, parents must learn to overcome their own fears.

Before washing woolens, shake or brush all loose dust and dirt from the garments.

Prunes are sold by size. The small ones have practically as much meat as the large ones and cost less.

Sewing, like kitchen work, is much easier and takes less time when there is a convenient center in which to do it.

Buy by weight; not by large, medium, or small sizes. The label on packages tells you what weight you get for your money.

Butter, cream and cod liver oil contain vitamins which are essential for health and which are not present in fats and oils.

Tall, thin women can reduce the appearance of height and add balance to their figures by wearing hats whose brims droop or have width. Short, stout women look taller and more slender with hats that flare up from the face.

Costly Japanese Art

In Nikko, Japan, there is a mountain clustered with temples, shrines and mausolea from the base to the summit. Six thousand men working for 12 years carried out the stupendous work of art at a cost of $10,000,000.

Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

If you have catarrhal deafness, or head noises, caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat, secure proper treatment at once. Sprays, salves and inhalers may bring you a temporary relief, but permanent results can only come from a constitutional treatment that will expel the catarrhal poison from your system.

Get from McBride Drug Stores or your druggist 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add ½ pint hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day; clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, mucous stop dropping. All sufferers from catarrhal deafness or head noises need the simple, pleasant, inexpensive Parmint treatment.

Such a Difference!

A writer recently recalled the remark of a Cambridge painter to William James, the great psychologist. "There isn't much difference between men, I've noticed," said the painter, "but what there is makes a sight of difference."

Suitor resigning:—Well, since you don't want to marry me perhaps you will return the ring.

Girl snapping:—If you must know, your jeweler has already called for it.

The rumor factory here has been running three shifts lately in Kingston. It's a wonder where all the ridiculous lies originate.

Andy:—How is it Harold has two caddies and you none?

Roger Ones mine; he keeps track of Harold's score for me.

A woman may have a mind of her own all right, but she reserves the right to change it as often as she pleases.

College Student (to professor)—Is there a word in the English language that contains all the vowels?

Professor—Unquestionably.

College Student—What is it?

Professor—I've just told you.

FEBRUARY SHORTS: The trouble is that men who drink like a fish don't drink what a fish drinks. Light wines begin to grow heavy about midnight. 'Life should be a route, not a routine. Space is about all some college students take up. A boy does as his father does, not as his father says. Nobody is very pleasant when he is hungry. No man can add to his greatness by belittling others. The man with an axe to grind is never particular whose grindstone he uses. It's a perfect fit if a woman's shoe is uncomfortable. Some people play games and other people let games play them. When a man asks for criticism, he is usually seeking praise. An apple caused the first downfall of man, but peaches have handled the business since that time. The less work a man has to do, the more he tires other people! It doesn't pay to fight other men's battles unless you are a lawyer.

One youth has solved the problem of what to do with Christmas cards. He saves and uses the nicest ones for bookmarks. The others he throws away.

No doubt a good many of the office-seekers who went to Georgia discovered that the warm springs were not so hot.

Never spread an ill report about your neighbor unless you first take great pains to ascertain if it is true—and then don't do it anyway.

In times of depression: When strong men tramp the streets looking for work and little children cry for bread, then it is that your account of friendliness and helpfulness should be drawn upon the most willingly and frequently.

Let's do all the business we can honestly.
Have all the fun we can reasonably.
Do all the good we can willingly.
And save our digestions by thinking pleasantly.

The teacher had written 97.2 on the blackboard and to show the effect of multiplying by ten, rubbed out the decimal point. She then turned to the class and said:

Teacher—Now, Alfred, where is the decimal point?

Alfred (without hesitation)—On the eraser.

If you must quarrel with a woman, be sure to pick a pretty one. If you quarrel with any other kind you may get angry.

We always sob while looking at a cute, pink-nosed little pig, because we know it will eventually become a big, fat, dirty old hog.

Doctor—What is the most you ever weighed?

New Patient—One hundred fifty-four pounds.

Doctor—And what is the least you ever weighed?

New Patient—Eight and a quarter pounds.

Too Should Not Stand Long

Tea should never stand longer than three minutes after freshly boiled water has been poured over the leaves. In three minutes the leaves give up all of their flavor and aroma and all their caffeine. Caffeine is the substance that gives the tea its pleasant strengthening effect. If the tea steeps over three minutes, too much tannin is obtained. With an oversupply of tannin in the tea it often appears cloudy.

Unusual Bargain In Antiseptics at Local Druggists

Local druggists are introducing a new oral antiseptic made by the makers of Vicks VapoRub. It is called Vicks Vaposteco Antiseptic

Of course, the only real proof of its quality and economy is actual use. To make this proof possible, a special trial size has been prepared. It contains 2½ ounces—a 25c value. Its price, while the limited supply lasts, is only 10c.

You can use Vicks Antiseptic, in your customary way, for bad breath; as a gargle, mouth-wash, or antiseptic lotion; and for all the other customary antiseptic uses.

Born in a depression year, Vicks Antiseptic is priced accordingly. The regular size, large 10-ounce bottle—a usual 75c value—is only 25c.

At The Theatres

Today.

Kingston: "Frisco Jenny." Another dramatic triumph for Ruth Chatterton in this story laid in the California of yesterday. As Frisco Jenny, a woman who lost father and sweetheart in the San Francisco earthquake she rises from a common street woman to a power in politics through the aid of graft and corruption. Her son, not knowing she is his mother, is district attorney. When a political friend of Frisco Jenny threatens to tell the son who his mother is, she kills him and is tried for murder by her son. The direction is excellent, the earthquake scenes realistic, and the work of Ruth Chatterton, Louis Calhern, Donald Cook and James Murray is brilliant.

Orpheum: "The Midnight Lady" and "The Cowboy Counsellor." Montague Love, Claudia Dell, Lina Basquette, Donald Keith and Brandon Hurst are among the featured players in the first attraction, while Hoot Gibson storms through another exciting western drama in the second talkie, a tale of the old west with gun play, stage coach robbing and everything.

Broadway: "20,000 Years in Sing Sing". Written by Warden Lewis Lawes of Sing Sing, this interesting panorama of prison life is replete with action as it unfolds the drama of convict living. It's the story of a tough guy, and the plot concerns his experiences in prison from the time of his entrance until his exit by way of the death house. Spencer Tracy in the role of the prisoner gives a completely convincing performance. This talkie bristles with thrills, and the acting is unusually good. Bette Davis is also in the cast as the girl in love with Spencer Tracy, and Arthur Byron and Lyle Talbot are good in featured parts.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "Ladies They Talk About". Barbara Stanwyck is the star of this modern drama, and in the supporting cast are such capable players as Lyle Talbot, Preston Foster, Lillian Roth and Dorothy Burgess. It's one of those girl about town stories, with Miss Stanwyck proving all over again that she is one of the most capable actresses on the screen.

Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: "Hard to Handle". James Cagney, the read headed tough guy of the movies, returns to the screen after a victorious battle of several months with his producers over the matter of salary. In this new vehicle he is the same as ever, an impulsive, likable fellow who gets into no end of trouble. Others in the cast are Claire Dodd and Mary Brian.

FINNS DEFY CRISIS; COST CUTTING AIDS TRADE GROWTH

Helsingfors (AP).—Finland, with its 1932 export surplus the largest on record, holds fast to its reputation of being one of the few countries to show an increasingly favorable trade balance in the face of the economic crisis.

The excess in value of exports over imports in the year was 1,190,000,000 finmarks, equivalent to $17,850,000 at current exchange.

In the first ten months of 1932, exports were worth 200,000,000 finmarks more than in the same period of 1931 while imports decreased by 94,000,000.

The Finnish Trade Review says this has come about because "it has been possible to reduce production costs in nearly the same degree as prices have fallen."

It's easy learning to cook the modern way

NO LONGER is it necessary to serve a long apprenticeship to learn the art of preparing appetizing meals. What grandmother learned in years, granddaughter may easily learn in weeks, and at a much younger age. The reason, is of course, that modern gas fuel, with complete control of both time and temperature leaves no uncertainty once the oven door is closed and cooking begun.

There is economy too in cooking with gas. Because results are so certain, there is no wasting of food through wrong guesses or uneven temperatures. It is costly in money as well as in disappointments to be old-fashioned when food is spoiled and thrown away. If the actual cost of cooking failures is added to the cost of old-fashioned cooking fuels, there remains no balance at all in their favor.

New Congress Fight On Filipino Bill Hinted By Quezon's Trip To America

Manila (AP).—Facing a momentous issue in the acceptance or rejection of the Hawes-Cutting independence bill, the Philippines are watching closely the maneuverings of their political leaders.

Decision of Manuel Quezon, mercurial leader of the dominant Nationalista party, to sail for the states on February 25, has revived rumors that an attempt might be made to re-open the question before the new Congress in Washington.

To Consult Roosevelt.

Quezon decided to risk his frail health on the long journey after Senator Hawes had sent word to the Islands that opponents of the 10-year trial brand of self-government could rest assured that the welfare and freedom of the Philippines had been amply safeguarded.

Quezon said he wanted to learn this at first hand. He intends to talk with President-elect Roosevelt, congressional leaders and the Philippine commissioners in Washington.

Previously the veteran Filipino leader had expressed outright opposition to the bill. Long an advocate of complete and immediate independence for his native land, he called the American offer "fictitious independence."

Diwata Brain Child.

Taxed then with having advocated just such a measure when he returned from Washington in November, 1931, Quezon answered:

"I don't recognize my son."

In that earlier pronouncement Quezon recommended that the insular legislature favor, first, immediate independence; second, if that were impossible, a transition period under limited free trade; third, independence under less favorable circumstances.

It was his second best idea which he intimated had been altered beyond recognition by the Hawes-Cutting measure.

Favoring this bill from Washington were the members of the current independence mission headed by Senator Sergio Osmena, Quezon's one-time political foe. With him are Manuel Roxas, speaker of the House; Camilo Osias and Pedro Guevara. Roxas has been one of Quezon's lieutenants but he allied himself with Osmena in advocating acceptance of the bill.

Provided there is no re-opening of the subject in the American Congress, the first test of Filipino reaction to the bill probably will come at the next regular session of the insular legislature. The 10-year law provides that the Island's law-makers may vote "yes" or "no" on the plan.

An affirmative vote would mean willingness to accept the responsibilities of nationhood under terms which critics of the measure consider onerous and dangerous to economic existence, but which advocates of the plan retort would seem cheap enough to the Filipino patriots who less than 35 years ago gave their lives for the same end.

Those favoring acceptance argue that a "no" vote would leave the issue as beclouded as it has been through years of agitation. It would mean that better terms—a shorter transition period, fewer conditions, more liberal free trade provisions—were hoped for from the incoming administration at Washington.

Rejection, they add, would permit revival of charges that the whole independence campaign was insincere, with the sentiment for freedom exploited by politicians employing the shibboleth "immediate and complete independence" as a means of remaining in power.

Furthermore, these urgers of favorable legislative action point out, a "yes" vote in the insular House and Senate would not be irrevocable. There would remain the popular vote at a special election to ratify or reject a constitution for the transitional commonwealth.

The Hawes-Cutting measure provides that this vote be accepted as a plebiscite and that rejection of the constitution would mean popular disapproval of the 10-year plan.

They Argue Over Independence

Manuel Quezon (below), veteran Filipino politician, is coming to the United States to satisfy himself that the new law for Philippine independence is the best that could be obtained by the Island commissioners headed by Sergio Osmena (upper left) and Manuel Roxas.

No, Your Eyes Aren't Deceiving You; It's The Florodora Hat Come Back

APPARENTLY there's nothing new under the sun—at least in hat styles. For example first there was the Empress Eugenie. Now comes the 1933 version of the Floradora hat of three decades ago.

AT left is a chic spring Floradora model in straw trimmed with camelias and velvet ribbon. Now look right, and presto! There's the Floradora worn in 1900. The hats were exhibited at a New York show.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

Mid-Season Caprices of the Parisienne

RED AND BROWN AGAIN

New York.—You have noticed, of course, that it is often possible to wear certain colors when they are combined than to wear either color singly. This seems to be true of red and brown, a combination which has become a sort of classic in color schemes, particularly for winter. The model sketched is one in which these two shades appear.

It is nearly always true that a woman wears black with better effect when it is relieved with white or a color. This brings to mind that the white accessory vogue is as strong, if not stronger than when it was launched. White hats, when linked with white neckwear, are very much worn. Read this description of a chic woman lunching at the Ritz in Paris:

"Her coat was in a black soft tweed, tailored in style, with a small collar of white lamb that tied like a stock cravat at front. Her hat was a beret of the same white lamb, pulled forward apache style; gloves and shoes were black, but her stockings were of heavy white silk, as snowy a white as hat and collar.

"The stockings were the only white ones this fashion reporter has seen in Paris, but the fashion of white hat to match some soft of white neckwear has been in style all winter."

Fancy white stockings reappearing. It would be just like them to return via some unexpected arrangement such as described instead of with summer dresses, which one might easily expect would occasion their renentry. For that very reason, they will probably reappear all the more dramatically. We have been informed right along that the Parisienne has shown a marked disinclination to adopt darker stockings, although we in America have taken them up as a relief from the nudes and flesh shades and suntans of other years.

Less often seen in Paris, but very smart, according to our authority, is the black costume worn with beige gloves to match the stockings.

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild.

Mohair braid, in vivid geranium red, belts this dark brown dress of tweedlike woolen. The belt itself is just above the hips, but an inset of fabric suggests a higher line; the surplice fronts are caught together at back of the neck in an enormous bow.

More Around-Six Costumes

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild.

Fabric contrasts, involving plains with patterns, contrive to giving new appeal to spring coats for the little girl.

A deep yoke, further broadened by puffed sleeves, lends interest to a coat of rabbit's-hair mixture woolen in blue. Note the crisp white piqué scalloped collar.

At right, a more severely tailored coat of reversible tweed, the check bordering the cape, a fashion promised greater popularity this spring, and making the cuffs of the sleeves. Each coat is worn with a matching hat.

Old Favorites Revived

Decidedly in their favor is the memory of past mannish style cycles, which brings encouragement for a repeated success. In the Gibson Girl era, the mannish sailor, the fedora, the tailored shirtwaist and the classic suit of men's wear fabrics and masculine cut flourished. Who can forget this cycle of American fashions touched with the male style influence?

Weyhe Dancers Entertain Kiwanis

The talented pupils of Mrs. Emilia Weyhe's Dancing School entertained members of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon, after which Song Leader Paul Zucca took charge and led community singing as well as selected a number of quartets from among those present.

The O'Reilly twins, Robert and Raymond, opened Mrs. Weyhe's program with clever tap dancing, which drew a round of applause from Kiwanians.

Teddy and Eddy Weyhe followed with amusing jokes and songs, followed by some comic dancing. The O'Reilly Twins again entertained with more dances, after which the Weyhes did some impersonations, humorous dialogue and acrobatic dancing.

This part of the program ended with all four pupils singing a closing song, which brought a big hand from the club.

President St. John Thanked Mrs. Weyhe and expressed the appreciation of the club for the entertaining program offered.

Mr. Zucca then took charge and his first quartet was composed of Clarence Rowland, Harry Halverson, C. Wallace Codwise and George Lowe, who competed with Abram Jansen, William Byrne, Edward Bonesteel and Robert Service, the second group to take the floor.

Kiwanis song, popular numbers and ballads then followed and the meeting closed with a novelty number, "Where Do You Work-a John?" Danny Bittner was at the piano.

A meeting of the board of directors was held at the close of the regular session.

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market.

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN.

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The stock market paused today after yesterday's upswing and prices slid back from fractions to a point here and there, under pressure of light flurries of profit taking.

Week-end mercantile reviews reported a sizeable pickup in sales of seasonal merchandise at retail, and corporate news included another regular quarterly dividend in Beechnut Packing's announcement of a 75-cent disbursement. U. S. Steel report of a decline in its unfilled tonnage, however, tended to counterbalance these more favorable aspects of the news.

The steel shares held up fairly well, showing only small fractional recessions. Tobacco again encountered considerable selling, some of it believed to be for short account, and losses of a point or so appeared on American and Liggett and Myers Class B issues. Other issues off major fractions to a point included Union Pacific, United Aircraft, Case and Air Reduction. American Telephone dipped a fraction, although its annual report was generally interpreted favorably. A little fresh activity appeared in some of the non-ferrous metal issues. U. S. Smelting rose 1¾, and Phelps Dodge ½.

U. S. Steel's decline in unfilled tonnage in January had been rather confidently forecast in some quarters, where the belief had been expressed that new business had not fully justified the step-up in production. Tonnage decreased 65,496 tons to 1,898,644 tons as of January 31, which more than cancelled the gains of the autumn months.

Important quarters in the oil industry felt that renewed stability should ensue after the American Petroleum Institute's new agreement this week on a statement of principals.

Remarks of President Gifford in American Telephone's annual report were regarded as enhancing the prospect of maintenance of the regular dividend. He pointed out that the company had laid up surpluses through abstinence from melon cutting in boom times, and that the dividends were vital to the day-to-day living of the vast majority of the stockholders.

Copper metal was reported a little firmer in European markets, but the domestic price still held at 5 cents, with business practically nil. The mercantile reviews reported a sharp pickup in retail trade, in response to the cold weather, and better movement of goods at wholesale, but said heavy industries were still sluggish. The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants said in a survey that economic improvement would uncover large shortages of goods.

Deputy Sheriff Run Down by Auto While On Way To Accident

William Dibbell, of Port Ewen, a deputy sheriff, was brought to the Kingston Hospital about 1:30 this morning, following an accident at Port Ewen, and was treated by Dr. Stenker, who found him suffering from concussion and possible fracture of the skull, multiple lacerations of the scalp and a lacerated right ear. He was reported to be in fairly good condition this noon.

Deputy Dibbell had been called to investigate an accident which had happened in front of the Van Leuven barber shop at Port Ewen. He had walked up from his home and near the scene of the accident apparently was about to cross the road when he was struck by a Willys Knight sedan driven by David Harris of Port Ewen, who was returning home from Kingston. Henry Polhemus, who was driving immediately behind Harris, stopped. Dibbell was placed in his car and accompanied by Harris. Polhemus took the injured man to the Kingston Hospital.

The first accident was caused when Royce W. Spaulding, driving one of Carmen's big milk trucks from Prattsville, struck the Essex coupe of Howard Galbraith, which was parked in front of the Van Leuven shop. The Essex was jammed into a telephone pole a short distance away, whirled around and thrown upon the sidewalk, a complete wreck, the entire top being smashed down to the door boards. The telephone cable was damaged when the car struck the pole and telephone communication south of Port Ewen was out for several hours.

Spaulding, when taken before Justice John G. Groves at Port Ewen, admitted that he had fallen asleep while driving, he having been returning from a trip to New York at the time of the accident.

The sheriff's office was notified of the accident this morning and Deputies Vredenburgh and Ellsworth conducted an investigation.

SEES COSMIC RAYS AS FUTURE ENERGY

Professor Piccard Says Power Will Cost Little.

Washington.—Cosmic rays may be the energy of the future, harnessed energy which will light cities, motivate industries and drive airplanes through the stratosphere at tremendous speeds, Prof. August Piccard, the Swiss physicist who ascended ten miles in a balloon, told an audience in the Washington auditorium in his first lecture in this country.

Speaking before the National Geographic society, the famous stratosphere explorer said it is "high time" man should be preparing to replace the earth's dwindling coal supplies with a new source of energy, which he believes will be the cosmic rays, which shower continuously on the earth from the sky.

"The transformation of the atoms of three drops of water," he said, "would produce enough cosmic rays and enough energy and motor power to light up the whole city of Washington through a whole night."

Cosmic rays are produced by a "modification of atoms" not yet understood, he explained, which releases tremendous energy, and "when we are able to manufacture these rays artificially on earth we will be able to utilize that vast energy, and can snatch out of a handful of air, from a source now invisible, sufficient energy to operate hundreds of high-powered machines."

"Cosmic rays are the energy of the future," he added, "and when this source of power is made available, producing limitless energy free, almost, what coal remains in the earth's veins will suddenly become valueless."

The cosmic rays are penetrating like the rays from radium, but a million times more powerful, Professor Piccard said.

U. S. and Germany Plan Economic Co-Operation

Berlin.—A big step forward in the economic co-operation between the United States and Germany has been achieved by a number of important freight pools, closed between north Atlantic shipping companies of both countries.

Agreements were closed between the United States line and the Hapag Lloyd Union, the Baltimore Mail Steam Ship company and the Hamburg-American line, the Yankee line and the Hamburg-American line.

Newspapers here hope the agreements will lead to improvement in the north Atlantic shipping service. The economic importance of the agreements is seen especially in the fact that damaging competition between the shipping companies of both countries will be removed.

"Ridden on a Pole"

The jolly old custom of being "ridden on a pole" is not the property of American lynching festivities. It is old, anyway, as the British army and originally took the form of a wooden horse. The guilty man had to "ride" this animal with his hands tied behind him and, occasionally, a couple of muskets tied to his feet "to keep him from being thrown." It is still used occasionally.—Chicago Times.

Armor Worn by Ancient Greeks

The Greeks of the Homeric age had helmets, cuirasses, greaves and shields of brass. The later Greeks used the same pieces of bronze armor, but developed them so as to protect the whole body more thoroughly and frequently used a corselet of quilted linen of Oriental design in place of the metal cuirass. The shield was smaller than the Homeric shield.

Prof. Riseley's Second Lecture

There was an excellent attendance at the second lecture to be given by Prof. A. W. Risley, under the auspices of the Athanaeum, Monday, Sorosis, 20th Century and the Young Married Women's Clubs, at the Y. W. C. A. hall on Thursday afternoon. Prof. Risley again held the closest attention of his audience as he spoke on "The Changing Age in this Anniversary Month."

Prof. Risley divided his subject into three sections, speaking on "Wise Conservation," "Anniversaries in February," and "Accomplishments."

The speaker took a quotation from Walter Lippman—"The least that can be asked of public men is that they hold their tongues until they have something to say," as the preface to his comments on "Wise Conservation."

News, according to Prof. Risley, is becoming so popular that it is crowding music and special features off the radio programs of today. He was of the opinion that Broadcaster Hill had scarcely used wise conservatism in his recent two speeches in which he opposed pay cuts for the army and navy and the air mail service, and accused Secretary Stimson of offensive meddling in Japan, which country he has scolded and hectored for about a year.

In the "Senate Sergeant at Arms" affair the speaker again felt that David S. Barry had not shown wise conservatism at the same time that he fully sympathized with Senator Logan who likened the situation to that of many hounds chasing one, poor fox.

Technocracy Prof. Risley called a "symptom." He described the sensations of a person lost in the woods, and in their panic finding familiar objects fearful. Lost people go around in circles and doubt their compasses. Because Technocracy is new there are those who think it must be right.

Inflation brought to the mind of the speaker, his seeing Bryan talk. Judging from the facts of history inflation had been disastrous wherever tried.

Prof. Risley has a way of putting certain problems up to his audiences and leaving them to their own solutions. He did that in connection with the "Internal Combustion Engine" such as the automobile and its effect on social unrest and queried, "Can we safely absorb our industrial advance without social revolution?"

Under "Anniversaries in February" were mentioned February 6, 1778, when France recognized the United States as a de facto state. Many birthdays of great men of the world were cited and brief note taken of their lives and influence upon the world. Beginning with the 23rd. anniversary of Boy Scouting, the speaker connected up the anniversary idea with that of education. He found in Boy Scouting a great force for discipline and leadership vs. gang control and racketeering among boys of scout age, and urged the planning of school work and scout work so that the two should cooperate.

In foot ball Prof. Risley found more than bodily training or a means of popularizing a school or college. From his own experience with the matter he found again discipline and an unusual opportunity to develop individual men and gave an illustration of how such a thing is done. He put a new idea of football into the minds of most of his hearers.

What he had to say of Washington and Lincoln proved the "value of the tried."

Under "Accomplishments," Prof. Risley summed up France's "Responsible Government," and explained her system of a "shifting cabinet," which does not mean a change of government. He considered the choice of Hitler as Chancelor of Germany as that of a man who has shown "Wise Moderation," and was of the opinion that Stimson's "scolding and hectoring" of Japan and the resulting Lytton report was apparently quite salutary. Calling attention to flags flying normally once more, Prof. Risley said that in connection with the death of Calvin Coolidge, he only wished he might have said, what one of his Kingston audience had said to him after his former lecture, "Who knows but that the death of Calvin Coolidge at this time, so emphasizes the sterling principles and character of his life as to bring to the nation today a more forceful lesson than his continuing quiet life could have given."

Prof. Risley closed his very thought-producing lecture with an expression of satisfaction that we are returning, in great measure to the finding of joy rather than drudgery in our jobs. The next lecture will be March 9.

Patent Office Is Ahead of All Others on Income

The patent office is self-supporting, there being a surplus of receipts over expenditures in practically every year of operation. A report of the institute for government research states that the charges made by the patent office for its services and most of its publications usually aggregate more than the entire expense of operation, so that this bureau has become one of the revenue-producing organizations of the government. The accumulated surplus earnings of the patent office up to June 30, 1923, amounted to over $8,460,000. A recent act of congress states that the money required for that office shall be appropriated by law out of its revenues, except as otherwise provided by law. The commissioner of patents is appointed by the President, with the consent of the senate. The annual report of the patent office for the year ended June 30, 1932, showed that a record number of patents, 52,572, had been granted; it showed also that all of the 65 examining divisions were less than six months behind, a great advance over former conditions. The demand for economy makes it unlikely that the force of about 700 examiners will be increased in the near future. Statistics for 1930 showed 96,227 applications, 50,571 patents granted, 112,767 pending, 16,230 trademarks.

Adjusting Operations To Present Situation

According to the 1933 Agricultural Outlook report just released by members of the staff of the State College of Agriculture, it will be necessary for all farmers to make every possible adjustment in their operations to weather the present economic storm. Dr. V. B. Hart and T. E. LaMont presented a very complete report on the present situation and what farmers could do about it, before a group of agricultural agents at a regional meeting in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday. W. J. Clark, Harnard Jor and Albert Kurdt represented Ulster county.

At the outset Dr. Hart pointed out that "the real cause of the decline in prices was monetary, and that the drop in the general price level from 141 per cent of pre-war (1910-14) in January 1929 to about 90 per cent in January 1933, is fundamentally due to a shortage in the monetary stocks of gold as compared to the physical volume of production. He further pointed out, and proved his point with numerous charts and figures, that the decline was not due to overproduction. The per capita physical volume of all things has been declining since 1925. The farmer can do very little about this fundamental situation, but there are a number of things he can do in adjusting his operations to the present level of prices."

Before giving any definite suggestions, Dr. Hart outlined seven important factors affecting the situation. They are as follows: (1) The price level of New York state agricultural products is now at 61 per cent of the five-year pre-war average; (2) The cost of farm labor, including board, is now 92 per cent of the pre-war average, or relatively high; (3) The comparative index number on costs of distribution is still at about 150, also very high; (4) The retail prices are high as compared to wholesale prices, largely because of factor 3; (5) The cost of farm machinery is high as compared to prices, with an index number nearly 150 per cent of pre-war; (6) Credit is tight and will in all probability remain so for the coming year, and (7) there will be more competition on quality in spite of the fact that prices are low.

With this preliminary statement Mr. LaMont followed by enumerating fourteen definite suggestions as to how the farmer might help himself. They are as follows: Use less labor per unit of product. This can be done by getting higher yields per acre or higher production per unit of livestock. One way to accomplish this end is to stop using low-yielding acres and poor-producing animals.

Crop only good land. Present costs of labor and equipment do not warrant using them on poor land. Many fields that it once paid to cultivate should now be in hay or pasture.

Put fertilizer only on good land. Fertilizer prices are low compared with labor and equipment. It can be profitably used on good land.

Use good seed. Seed represents only a small part of the of producing farm products, but good, clean, tested seed insures a better crop than poor, unadapted seed.

Clean herds and flocks of disease. This can be done at the least cost when livestock prices are low. It will also result in more efficient production.

All livestock should be culled rigidly. Getting rid of low producers is an effective way of raising the production per cow or per hen. In the case of dairying, records of production for both milk and butterfat, are more essential than ever before.

The farmer should make every effort to get as near to the retail price as possible for his products.

A larger share of living should be derived from the farm. Each farm should have a good sized garden planted to good varieties of vegetables. More milk, poultry and eggs, home killed beef, firewood, etc., from the farm means saving the purchase of food and fuel at retail prices.

Produce high quality products. High transportation charges should be paid only on the best quality products available.

Do more repair work on machinery. The high price of farm machinery makes it more economical to spend time caring for and repairing machinery on hand.

Pay cash for all purchases if possible. Prices of feed and fertilizer have declined but many dealers are still offering the same dollars and cents cash discounts as they did formerly. This means an extra saving.

Get debts in shape. All debts such as mortgages should be gotten in long-time form or written extensions should be obtained. Action on mortgages and notes may start when the person holding them changes his mind or dies.

Do some outside labor if possible. Many farmers might find it possible to do some outside work at a profit to themselves.

The entire farming operation should be carefully studied and definite plans made to carry out as many of the above suggestions as possible.

It is planned to carry the above information to as many farmers as possible through meetings, conferences, publicity and personal visits. This will be done through the local Farm Bureau in each county.

College Gym Team To Give Exhibition

Each year the Springfield College gym team goes on the road for a tour of eastern cities. Tagged as one of the best in the country, this team will make its first appearance in Kingston on March 15.

The coming of this team will provide an evening's entertainment that appeals to both young and old. The program has thrills and novelties in plenty and skilled feats that denote hours of practice and any amount of fun and comedy.

The program includes rhythmic calesthenics, side horse stunts, waltz clog, high horizontal bar work, Indian club swinging, comedy duo, sabre drill, parallel bars and pyramids, electric clubs, tap dancing, tumbling and acrobatic leaping, diving and vaulting stunts.

The team is under the direction of Coach Leslie J. Judd, whose ability as an instructor in gymnastics is internationally known.

Springfield gym team also competes with other colleges in the east in competitive gymnastics. The afternoon previous to the exhibition they will be entertained at West Point for a meet. Last year was the first they entered into the competitive field. Not only did they win the New England championship but they annexed the second place title in the National Intercollegiate Meet held at the U. S. Naval Academy.

Included in the roster of the team are some national titleholders. Clyde Shotzbarger, intercollegiate tumbling champion and second place in all-around intercollegiate gymnastic competition. John Seely, who placed second in the horizontal bar at the National Intercollegiates. Lyle Welser, who is rated very high in the field of exhibition work.

The coming of the Springfield College gym team will have more than a passing interest for those who are interested in problems of physical and character education.

CAPE TAKES PLACE IN SPRING MODELS

There is more and more evidence of the coming popularity of the cape. It appears almost daily in some new form, in the studios of the well-known designers—as a half-length evening wrap, as a full-length sports over-all, as an accessory to the afternoon dress, as the collar on a town coat.

It is made in velvet, tweed, corduroy, satin—practically every imaginable material.

As Mainbocher indicates in a good many of his new spring clothes, the cape looks its youngest when it is short.

He puts it, in a dashing abbreviated form, on the back of little wool dresses; he wraps it around the shoulders of spring suits; he makes it into elbow-length and hip-length wraps to go over young girls' evening dresses.

Slippers for Evening Are Now Shown in All Colors

Exquisite new evening slippers tempt from the show windows—all colors, all tints, to match or contrast with the gown. They are fashioned of velvet, doeskin, crepe, satin, brocade, silver and gold kidskin, and are elaborate and ornamental.

The lavish cut-out sandal is passing out of the fashion picture. It is being succeeded by a new sandal pattern in which the tips of the toes and the heels are covered.

Coral Velvets

Could anything be lovelier than lounging pajamas of coral colored velvet made with a flattering surplice neckline which is embroidered in a conventional design with white angora?

Female Bird Rules Roost

The pharalope, a snipe-like shore bird of the northern hemisphere, has characteristics and habits quite contrary to the usual run of things among birds. With this species it is the female instead of the male that is the largest, most aggressive and wears the brightest colors. Moreover, in the Arctic regions where they breed, the male attends to the building of the nest and incubates the eggs after the female has deposited them.

Banquet In Honor Of Mary E. Noone

Thursday evening 44 members of the Kingston High School faculty gathered in the school cafeteria for a banquet in honor of Miss Mary E. Noone, retiring head of the English department. The dinner was under the supervision of Mrs. Pinerty and Mrs. Cure and was served by the members of the advanced homemaking courses. The tables were attractively decorated with candles and pink roses.

Mr. Dumm explained that although there was to be a program of entertainment, he had been given strict orders that it was not to include formal speeches. However, he offered Miss Noone the keys to the city and high school for either a speech or a song at any moment when she felt so inclined. Miss Noone explained that she was immediately going to disappoint those who expected to keep her quiet by telling the experiences that she had had on her "first day at large." She also warned those who might retire in the future that she had already found the old adage that nature abhors a vacuum strictly true and that their time would become instantly filled with a vast number of trivial occupations.

Mr. Dumm then introduced Superintendent Van Ingen explaining that the ban against speeches had applied only to himself and not to the superintendent. Mr. Van Ingen began "How happy we all are tonight as a group of friends of Miss Noone, happy with her because she has reached the desire of many years, because she now has the opportunity to do the things she has wanted to do all her life." He then went on to speak of Miss Noone's service as one of loyalty and cooperation, dominated always by a spirit of fairness, good judgment and sympathy. Her classes were both eager and happy because she always used the delicate tools of vision, inspiration and art for the building of human character. To her belonged those rare gifts of a teacher and friend—insight, understanding, sympathy.

Mr. Van Ingen then read a letter from the Board of Education which he had brought to present to Miss Noone. The letter explained that while as a body the board acquiesced in her resignation, as individuals the members expressed their sincere regret and wished to take this opportunity to thank her for her loyalty, cooperation, sympathy and appreciation of the educational needs of the high school student.

In closing the superintendent expressed to the guest of the evening the best wishes not only of the faculty, but of the young people, their parents, and of the patrons of the school for her health, her joy, her peace, her happiness.

Mrs. Palen, chairman of the entertainment committee, said that Miss Noone's co-workers had felt very keenly that they would not wish her to forget them and to insure the fact that she would not, had arranged for flowers to be sent to her from time to time throughout the year. In thanking her friends for their kindness and generosity, Miss Noone assured them she planned to return to see them often.

To conclude the evening Miss Bailey sang the K. A. Alma Mater as a solo, while the eight members of the faculty, who had at one time been connected with the Academy either as students or teachers, including Mrs. Palen, who wrote the words of the song, joined in the chorus.

The program included a group of two piano solos by Miss Agatha Flick, "March of the Dwarfs" by Grieg and "Valse in A" by Chopin. Miss Ethel Masterstock then gave a most amusing reading "Uncle Moses Discourses on Apples," and as an encore, "George Washington and the Cherry Tree." Miss Laura Bailey gave two vocal solos, "I Do Not Know Where Heaven Is" by Geoffrey O'Hara, and "A Birthday" by Huntington Woodman. Henry Dunbar, official school whistler, then whistled three selections, accompanying himself on the guitar. He also accompanied Miss Bailey in the old Welsh tune "Last Night," which she sang as an encore solo.

Geese Live Long

Geese are long-lived birds, living to a considerable age of fifty years or more. There are definite records of seventy or eighty years in England and America, and ages of over one hundred years are possible.

Spinnys Win At Home, Play Rosendale Next

The Spinny Radio Five fortified itself for the game with the Rosendale Firemen by completely outclassing and outscoring by a wide margin the Fleischmanns Town Team at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, Thursday night. Final score of the battle was 59-24 in favor of the quintet from across the creek.

Leading the Spinny attack was Hank Krum, high scoring center, who caged the ball for 18 points, the result of eight fields and two fouls. Next in line came "Bink" Van Etten and Dan Joyce, forwards, with 14 and 11 respectively, and Jack Short, utility man, with 10.

Pultz, scoring threat of the visitors, was held in the goose-egg class by Al Short, Spinny guard, while Griffin, his mate in the forecourt, broke loose to make 12 markers, highest individual tally of the Fleischmanns team.

The next home contest of the Spinny's will be against St. John's of Goshen, who have defeated both the Detroit Clowns and House of David, Thursday, February 16.

At Rosendale Saturday.

Saturday the Port Ewen club plays at Rosendale, meeting Johnny Regan's Firemen, who last week turned out a 35-24 victory over Pepper Martin's Globe Trotters and defeated such other clubs as Mountaindale Steamrollers, 38-25; Morgan Repealers, who play the House of David tonight at White Eagle Hall, 29-23; Niagara Steamers, 57-37; Yonkers Americans, 36-24.

Of course, the hose handlers have not gone undefeated, having lost one contest to the Morgan Repealers, 26-27, another to Pete Bruck's All Stars, 17-42, and another to the House of David, 23-26, besides bowing to several other quintets. The Port Eweners hope to hang another defeat on the Firemen, but the task will be no easy matter, according to the way that the Rosendalers fought and won from the Globe Trotters.

To date the Firemen have won 14 games and lost 9.

Wright Improved Fighter For Match With Mahoney

Only three days remain before Jack Jerry Wright, Poughkeepsie negro, climbs through the ropes to prove his claim to the heavyweight title he won by knocking out Billy Baxter, Rochester pugilist, in the state tournament of the Amateur Federation held in that city early this week.

Wright, who last year won the heavy crown in the Golden Gloves championships, disposed of Baxter in four rounds, punching harder than ever in the duel which showed him to be in excellent physical condition.

Retains Condition

Jerry has retained the natural qualities that aided him in Rochester by adhering to training rules and is ready to put the skids under "Biff" or "Slam" Mahoney in the feature of the Volunteer Aid Committee bouts at the old armory Monday night.

As far as his punching is concerned, the negro expects to give Kingston fans one of the best exhibitions of hard hitting seen here in some time. Training for the state championships, Wright seemed to develop a harder "kick" than previously carried in his punches and feels certain that he will be able to hit harder and more often than in his last appearance here against Mahoney who was given an unpopular decision.

Upon returning from Rochester Wright told Matchmaker "Doc" Studer he would give a better exhibition than ever against the Connecticut state champ in the armory and the local cauliflower ear impresario is inclined to believe he will, having seen him win the amateur title upstate. Doc seemed more than pleased with his condition as well as his improved fighting.

Mahoney Favored, 7-5

Despite Wright's claim to the heavyweight title, many Kingston fans favor Mahoney, a terrific puncher, to outslug Jerry and have installed him a 7-5 favorite over the Poughkeepsie bonbon.

Supporting the heavyweight attraction is a card of scraps billed for 34 rounds, as has been announced. The array of matches promises plenty of action especially in the semi-final between Johnny Raymond, Flatbush pride, and Jimmy Shannon, middleweight slugger from Hartford, Conn., and the special pairing between Jerry Trought, "Orpheum Slugger," and Young Martin, 155 pounder from Catskill. Both are scheduled for six rounds.

There are four four rounders booked, the outstanding attraction being the one between Young Sickler of Kingston and Spider Kelly of Flatbush, two 110 pounders who are expected to furnish plenty of fast milling.

Crowd Expected

Regarding the attendance, a record crowd is expected. There was a very pleasing turnout at the last fistic attraction in the armory, many feminine fans being among the gathering. The ladies are looked for in just as large a number Monday.

Reserved seats can be obtained by 'phoning Les Barth, custodian, at the American Legion Memorial Building, any time during the day from 10 o'clock in the morning until midnight. The number is 1914.

ALBANY VOLLEY TEAM AT THE "Y" SATURDAY

The Kingston Y. M. C. A. volley ball team is in for a hard fight on its own court Saturday afternoon when it opposes the fast Albany "Y" representatives at 3:30 o'clock. Battling for the local Triangles will be a team made up from the following lineup: D. Shufeldt, Stan Winne, T. Young, Bob Murray, Tom Morrissey, Jimmy Voelker, Senator Wicks, Jack Haulenbeck, Herman Roosa and Ed Lacey.

Eastman Family Preparing To 'Gang Up' On Bill Carr

Sam Eastman, brother of the illustrious Ben, Stanford's great middle distance runner, hopes to make it a family affair when they seek revenge on little Bill Carr of Pennsylvania this summer. Carr, you'll remember, run circles around the supposedly invincible Ben in the Olympics.

Carnera Favored Over Schaaf, 6-5

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Primo Carnera will be summoned before a court of fistic justice tonight to show cause why he should be given a chance at Jack Sharkey's heavyweight championship in June.

The ponderous Italian has been promised a "shot" at the title if he can overcome Ernie Schaaf, Sharkey's personal "trial horse," in their 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although he will be outweighed 50 pounds by Carnera, Schaaf is so ruggedly built that no one concedes the Italian a chance of knocking him out. Of the two, Schaaf is by far the harder hitter and, on form, should win. But the odds are on Carnera, 6-5.

Carnera has done comparatively little ring work since Sharkey gave him a sound whipping in the fall of 1931. In recent months he has scored victories over King Levinsky and K. O. Christner.

The basketball lineup will be picked from the following men: "Chicken" Smith, Dan Joyce, Ralph Post, "Hank" Krum, Chet Fox, Ed Follett, Harry Houghtaling and Pete Schline.

COMFORTER SENIORS DEFEAT ST. JAMES FIVE.

When a town changes to the dignity of a city depends upon locality. Once the presence of a cathedral made a city. In America every town with mayor and corporation is one. In Canada, population determines it. In England, any town may be raised to the dignity by royal authority.—Tit-Bits.

SPORT SLANTS

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Among other things the current re-adjustments in sport, by no means completed as yet, have made it increasingly difficult for our athletes to capitalize their skill or exploit their fame.

It is true not only of the professional but also the amateur star. In the sense that it is deflating values, pricking the bubble of the ballyhoo and making for saner viewpoints, it is a very gratifying situation. Insofar as some of the performers themselves are concerned it has its pathetic touches.

The case of Babe Didrikson seems, at the moment, a classic one. What would the cash value of the Babe been, say three or four years ago, as a barnstorming professional, granting she had then achieved as much fame as she did in the last Olympics? I do not think it would be any exaggeration to estimate the figure at around $50,000 for a single year.

The Texas Babe would not last as a pro because her field of opportunities in athletics is somewhat limited. She would run out of real competition and the novelty of an extraordinary young lady champion would wear off. It seems to be doing so now.

If the Babe makes as much as $5,000 now, from any and all sources, within a year, she will be a fortunate young woman, despite the fact she has been the beneficiary of some unusual ballyhoo. She would have been better off, in the long run, to have remained amateur and waited for a better opportunity to "cash in."

Lean Times For Heroes.

The blame is not hers, but belongs to her advisers and to those bright young men who exaggerated her Olympic exploits and personality in the public prints.

There was supposed to be a terrific rush, following the Olympics, to capitalize the fame of the young men and women whose exploits monopolized the headlines in the greatest combined athletic show of all time.

But except for Buster Crabbe, the swimmer, who seems to be profiting from the successful motion picture venture of Johnny Weismuller, I do not find that these Olympic stars have made much financial headway since casting aside their amateurism.

Such as it is, Eddie Tolan, the double sprint champion, has a job in Detroit. "Jarring Jim" Bausch, the great all-around athlete, has been doing short turns with an orchestra. Ralph Hill, the greatest runner-up of the game, is looking for a teaching job and not finding it easy. I do not seem to find much evidence of those famous mermaids, Helene Madison and Eleanor Holm, being a sensation in the business of being exploited.

Gene Hits It Tough.

How much do you suppose Gene Sarazen has made during the past year off his reputation as Open Golf Champion of Great Britain and the U. S. A., a feat for which, he was voted the outstanding performer of 1932? His manager talked quite freely of a $250,000 cash profit, but I would be much surprised if the genial Gene has cleared, over and above his expenses, much more than $2,500.

Yet a few years ago the value of only one of these titles to a pro could be figured as at least $25,000 and usually $50,000.

All of which proves, incidentally, that when Mr. Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., pulled out of competition in 1930 with all the best known golfing crowns in his possession and proceeded to "cash in", he also pulled the smartest play of his career.

GRAPHIC GOLF

AVOID OVERSWINGING WITH IRONS

OVERSWINGING with iron clubs is a fault hard to get rid of. Many golfers employ the same swing for a short iron shot as they do for wooden club play. In his early years Francis Ouimet had difficulty curtailing his swing for the irons to somewhere between the half and the full swing and still strike the ball a crisp blow at the same time. Then while in England in 1914, preparing for the British Amateur tournament, he stumbled upon the secret. Anxiously watching Hilton's brisk strokes in the hope of discovering how the latter played these shots, the present amateur champion observed that the Englishman gripped the club with his right thumb on top of the shaft. Ouimet tried it, and lo! the overswing was stopped. It was impossible for him to overswing with the right thumb in this position. If you have the same fault with your irons, try out this particular panacea.

POULTRY

POOR FEEDING CUTS PROFIT ON POULTRY

Balanced Ration Necessary, Expert Advises.

Instead of substituting, there has been considerable subtracting done in feeding poultry, and as a consequence some poultrymen are failing to get the income they should get from their flocks.

Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the poultry department at North Carolina state college, says considering its great importance, feeds and feeding for poultry is generally less understood than any other phase of the industry. The lack of information is shown especially when an attempt is made to substitute certain feeds on hand at home for those which should be purchased or exchanged.

Mr. Dearstyne declares that poultry requires a balanced ration containing protein, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and vitamins in an available form. These should be given in the quantity and of the quality to maintain the bodily vigor of the fowls and permit them to lay according to their highest ability. It is important to give the birds plenty of water because the fowl's body is 55 per cent water and the egg is over 65 per cent water.

Animal proteins as supplied by fish meal, meat meal or milk products are also necessary. It is not enough to rely on the vegetable proteins supplied in certain of the grain feeds.

The fats supplied by grain feeds are usually enough for poultry but minerals should be supplied by bone meal, oyster shell, limestone, rock phosphate and salt. Mineral deficiencies in the ration are common.

More Encouragement for Profit in Poultry Gam

According to figures issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, the number of hens and pullets in farm flocks is from 4 to 5 per cent greater than one year ago. It is thought that egg production may not be large for some time to come. The reason given for this estimate is the high percentage of late hatched pullets, and also because it is doubtful whether this winter will be as mild as that of a year ago.

Aside from this, the storage situation is more favorable. Holdings of case eggs on September 1 were 34 per cent below those on the corresponding date last year, and 37 per cent below the average of the last five years. With this reduction in storage supplies, even if current production should prove larger than last year there would still be a considerably smaller supply of eggs available for consumption during the next few months.

Egg shipments from the Pacific coast have been light for some time and may decrease still further, because of a 13 per cent estimated increase of chicks raised last spring and summer. The low price of feed will also be an important factor in bringing profitable returns from all flocks which are well bred and well fed.—Wallace's Farmer.

Hens That Do Not Lay Should Be Culled Out

If one could be certain that he has hens and pullets in his flock that would not lay any eggs until next spring he would not want to feed them all winter.

One way of reducing the feed cost of producing eggs is to cull out undesirable birds at intervals frequent enough to prevent their getting very much feed without paying for it. Among the laying flock there are hens of this class such as those that loaf through the summer, laying too few eggs to be profitable. There may also be diseased hens or those out of condition that should not be carried any longer. Among the pullet flock may be poorly developed, diseased, or otherwise unfit birds that should be culled out. It is not quite fair, nor good business, for a good hen to pay for the feed eaten by a cull.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Feed Hens Freely

If your poultry flock is not producing as efficiently as you know it should be, check up on the available feeding and watering space. See that there is plenty of room for all the birds to eat freely and see further that they are given a good balanced ration which will stimulate and maintain egg production. Poorly-fed birds will not be good producers. Hens will pay a better price for feed than any other kind of animals produced on the farm.—Prairie Farmer.

Poultry Must Be Meaty

Trying to raise poultry meat with insufficient feed has been a great disappointment to some beginners, says the Indiana Farmer's Guide. When sale buyers quickly run their fingers down the breast bones of the birds they buy. Roosters with razor breasts are quickly classed as No. 2 birds as buyers do not want them. At least the price per pound to the producer is too low to show anything but a loss. Thus there is proof that it pays to raise No 1 birds.

Survey Long Drawn Out

A survey of the United States was started some 147 years ago and is still far from complete. There are about 220,000 sections, 140,800,000 acres of land, that have not been platted and definitely located on the map of the country.

Chilean Policy Seen Threat to Huge U. S. Stake

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN.

Santiago, Chile (AP)—With the American stake in Chile approximately $550,000,000, United States officials and heads of companies operating here, warmed by the government's attitude toward foreign interests, are working for recognition of rights based on concessions and contracts approved by previous administrations.

About $360,000,000 of the American investment is tied up in a group of defaulted bond issues. The bonds are obligations of the Chilean government and the state mortgage credit bank and are held by thousands of persons in the United States.

Mines Lead Field.

The two chief mining enterprises of Chile, nitrate and copper, are controlled by American capital. Despite the recent dissolution of "Cosach," the cooperative producer-government nitrate combine, the American firm of Guggenheim Brothers continues to dominate the production field. The government has promised to find a satisfactory formula for reorganization of this industry.

The chief Guggenheim properties are at Maria Elena and Pedro de Valdivia, back of the northern nitrate port of Tocopilla. The firm also owns some smaller nitrate properties.

The copper mines are those of the Anaconda Company and the Guggenheims. Anaconda operates the Chile Exploration Company plant at Chuquicamata, one of the world's greatest, and that of Andes Copper Co. at Potrerillos, both in Northern Chile. Braden Copper Co., at Sewell, in Central Chile, is owned by the Guggenheims.

Covers Whole Country.

W. R. Grace & Co. has a far-flung shipping, importing, manufacturing and retail business throughout all provinces, including 50 grocery stores, various manufacturing plants, steamship and airplane lines, nitrate properties and financial investments.

Chile's modern dial telephone system is owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Co. All American Cables has many offices here.

Electric Bond and Share Corporation operates electric light, power and traction companies, including huge Andean power plants.

Standard Oil interests in Chile are extensive.

National City Bank of New York has two large branches, and other banks have representatives.

Bethlehem Steel has iron mines at Cruz Grande, in the north.

E. I. Du Pont de Nemours interests control an explosives industry.

Many Lines Slack.

American automobiles of all makes have agencies here, though the market is glutted and few sales are possible on account of economic conditions.

Curtiss-Wright Co. has an airplane manufacturing plant here, but business is slack.

American construction firms have investments here but are doing little business.

OLD ANTI-JACKSON MEDAL. RELIC OF LONG-AGO POLITICS

Kingston, N. Y., Feb. 9, 1933.

To Editor of The Daily Freeman:

Reading so much about barter and exchange, substitute for currency, etc., brings to my memory an old copper coin I have in my possession. I do not know its history, nor do I know one that does know it. The Freeman helps solve many problems and I am hoping some of your readers can give some information through your columns about this coin.

It is just a trifle smaller than the regular fifty cent piece. Around the edge on one side are the words, "Perish credit, perish commerce." There is a pig or boar running; on its side are the words, "My third beat," over this pig are the words, "My victory," under it the words, "Down with the Bank," and the date 1834. On the other side, around the edge, "My substitute for the U. S. Bank." There is a small bust of a figure of a man, and "My experiment, my currency, my glory." Would be very much pleased to learn why, where and by whom this coin was struck off or coined. Thanking you, I am,

OLD COIN.

This "coin" is evidently a medal issued by some party or organization in opposition to the policies of President Andrew Jackson which destroyed the Bank of the United States, bringing about great confusion and suffering and eventually causing the panic of 1837. Such medals were frequently circulated in political campaigns, but usually in support of some candidate, as for instance, the log cabin medal in the William Henry Harrison campaign.

How I Broke Into The Movies

Copyright by Hal C. Herman

By RICHARD BARTHELMESS

"INTO this Universe, and Why not knowing Nor Whence, like Water willy-nilly flowing; And out of it, as Wind along the Waste, I know not Whither, willy-nilly blowing."

Life, to me, is something like that Omar "hits" me quite often. Somehow we humans do things in spite of ourselves. In the shuffle of existence we sort of find our niches "willy-nilly."

My father died when I was one year old. My mother, faced with the necessity of supporting herself and her baby, took to the stage.

As I grew to boyhood my education became a problem and thus when my mother went on tour she sent me to military school. During vacations I sometimes appeared on the stage, but not with the stage in my mind as a serious future.

Then came college days—Trinity, Hartford, Conn.—where I took part in amateur theatricals. One day a film company from New York came to a nearby village on location. I was impressed with their work; but still my original purpose to enter business upon leaving college remained.

Then came another vacation period and rather than remain idle I secured work at ten dollars a day as an extra in "Gloria's Romance," which starred Billie Burke. Then followed more extra work in a production of "Romeo and Juliet," followed by a lull rather unwelcome at this time.

My mother, Caroline Harris, was a dear friend of Nazimova—in fact it was my mother who taught Nazimova to speak English when that wonderful Russian actress first came to America.

Nazimova was about to start the production of "War Brides," under the direction of Herbert Brenon. They had been seeking for weeks for a young man to play the role of the younger son, Arno. While plans for "War Brides" were going on I was getting terribly discouraged. I had spent weeks making the usual rounds of the Fort Lee and New York studies and had about made up my mind that there was no room for me in motion picture work.

I suddenly decided to sign up for a naval training cruise to tide me over the summer. I had always loved the sea and this seemed like an opportunity to do something before going back to Trinity college for my senior year.

On the evening when I was to depart on the cruise Fate smiled ironically and decided to alter my life.

A telephone call came from Nazimova asking me to see her at the hotel. I was engaged for the role of Arno in "War Brides," and that was the beginning. I never returned to Trinity!

I was not yet twenty-one when this turning point in my life occurred, but had the call come the next day I would have been away on the cruise and probably become a second-rate business man at the end of my college days.

After "War Brides," came several leading roles with Marguerite Clark followed by some great "breaks" in David Wark Griffith productions, culminating in "Broken Blossoms" and "Way Down East."

Then out of clear skies came the talking pictures. I appeared in "Weary River." "Drag"—both dialogue films, and it is to talking pictures that I look for that eventful greatest role of my career.

Bird in the Fairy Book

"A big bird from one of my fairy tales came and took me for a ride." This was how a four-year-old child of Bombay, India, described being seized by an eagle while playing outside a farm house in the Trondelag district. The eagle carried the child halfway up a high, steep cliff and then dropped her. When picked up the child was quite unhurt.

Foiling the Seasons

Men have used strange methods in trying to convince people that they were different from the rest of the world. Tang Ti, a Chinese emperor, used to have leaves and flowers of silk sewed on his trees every autumn to show that even they were not subject to the laws of the seasons.—Collier's Weekly.

Flatbush Concert.

The Little Choral Club will give a concert in the Flatbush Reformed Church on the night of Friday, February 17, starting at 8 o'clock. Ronald Heermance will be the conductor. There will be a rehearsal of the club on Saturday evening, February 11, starting at 7:30, in the church.

Cigarets Have Been Used Over One Hundred Years

The cigaret is 100 years old, but the conditions of its birth are so obscure that the world is not celebrating its centennial.

Like many another famous invention, the cigaret's creation was due to an accident. The generally accepted story is that it was born in 1832, during the siege of Saint Jean d'Arc by the soldiers of Ibrahim Pasha, viceroy of Egypt.

Legend says that the Egyptian soldiers were faced by an emergency. A camel caravan had brought a great quantity of Turkish tobacco, but another caravan loaded with pipes had been captured by the Turks. The soldiers had plenty of tobacco and wanted to smoke, but in the absence of pipes, were obliged to find a substitute.

An officer solved the problem by rolling a pinch of tobacco in a piece of tissue paper and enjoyed the smoke. The news spread over the camp and those who could not find tissue paper used a type of India paper.

The French tobacco monopoly administration, without verifying that picturesque legend admits that the cigaret came to Europe from the Near East, carried back by navigators. As far as France is concerned, the oldest official document is an order signed by Louis-Philippe on October 22, 1843, which authorizes the royal factory to manufacture cigarets.—Detroit Free Press.

Scenic Ecuador Smallest South American Republic

Travelers are discovering that Ecuador, lying on the Equator, along the west coast of South America, is one of the most unspoiled places in the Western hemisphere. This country was inhabited, long before Columbus ever dreamed that the world was round, by prehistoric races whose origin is shrouded in mystery.

Although it is the smallest of South American republics, Ecuador boasts the most startling scenic contrast of any place of its size on the continent; two of the highest peaks in the Andes, Chimborazo and Cotopaxi about 20,000 feet high; and fertile valleys and coastal plains yielding sugar, coffee, tobacco, cotton and vegetable ivory.

From Guayaquil a spectacular railroad route leads through dense jungles and magnificent mountain scenery to Quito, the capital, which rests almost 10,000 feet above sea level. Quito—along with Mexico City, and Cuzco, ancient capital of the Incas—antedates the white man's discovery of America. Its exact age is unknown.

Goethe's Lineage

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe was a direct descendent of Charlemagne. This is the claim of Professor Dr. Edward, noted German historian, of the University of Tuebingen, who has carefully studied the list of ancestors of the famous German poet, the hundredth anniversary of whose death was marked by memorial festivities throughout entire Europe. According to Professor Schroeder, the wife of an ancestor of Goethe in the eleventh generation, Frau Kuntzel Dietz, was the illegitimate daughter of Duke Henry III of Hessia. Following this line, Professor Schroeder came to the astounding discovery that Charlemagne was one of the early ancestors of the famous German poet.

The Stamp Collector

A missionary had delivered a lecture relating his experiences in various parts of the world. He concluded with an earnest appeal for funds to keep up the good work, and added that even the children would be welcome to give their mite.

When the meeting was over, he was pleased to see a boy pressing forward to meet him. He held out his hand to the boy and said: "I'm glad to see you, my little man. I always take a great interest in children. I suppose you would like to contribute to the cause."

"Well," replied the little boy, "what I wanted to ask was whether you have any foreign stamps to give away?"—Pathfinder.

Pilgrims Established "Washday"

The fact that December 20, 1620, fell on Sunday made Monday washday for the whole United States. The Pilgrims established Monday as the traditional day in the American household for washing the clothes and linens. The day they landed on Cape Cod was Sunday. In their long voyage their supplies of clean clothing ran low. Fresh water aboard the Mayflower had been restricted to a few barrels for drinking and cooking. Consequently it is easy to see why the God-fearing newcomers seized the first opportunity after the Sabbath to freshen their wardrobes.—Washington Post.

Sermon Had Too Much "Go"

At the dedication of the memorial statue to Waicyn Wyn, the Welsh national bard, at the foot of Black mountain, recently, stories of his keen sense of humor were told. One was that on a Sunday afternoon, while Wyn was preaching in a small chapel between the hills, a gust of wind from an open window sent his notes fluttering from the pulpit toward the door. The preacher descended from the pulpit and followed his notes, remarking the while, "I did not think there was so much 'go' in the little sermon until now."

Ellenville Man Presents Charges

S. M. Boyce, one of the trustees of the Village of Ellenville, threw a bombshell into the session of the village board Monday evening, when, as a member of the police committee he charged that a resident of Ellenville was operating two trucks with one set of license plates. According to Mr. Boyce on occasions both trucks had been run, each with but one plate on. He added that he had reported the matter to Chief of Police Richard A. Porter, but that no arrest had been made.

The chief was present at the meeting and in reply to questioning stated that he had approached the truck owner, but found that at the time he had the proper license plates on the truck he was driving. He was "working on the case" and planned to arrest the man if he found him violating the law. The chief also said that he had reported the matter to the State Troopers, as the truck in question is used a good deal outside the village.

Trustee Boyce also made a statement to the board in which he alleged that a Middletown wholesale produce dealer had been "distributing gifts to police officers in many communities, including this one."

Sub-Zero Weather Enveloped City

Sub-zero weather gripped the city and county Thursday night, and early this morning thermometers were reported here registering as low as 2 below zero, while others registered a few degrees above the zero mark. The cold spell continued throughout the day. The weather was somewhat different from that of Thursday when a chill wind blew all day. Today there was but little wind but it was a still cold that penetrated.

The streets in the city in many places are still a glare of ice, and many auto drivers were still using chains today, although a number of cars ran without chains. Outside of Kingston on the state roads there did not appear to be as much ice as on the city streets, due probably to the fact that the state roads are built so as to drain off better.

Lights of NEW YORK

By WALTER TRUMBULL

Selena Royle is one of the stars of John Golden's production of Rachel Crothers's highly successful comedy, "When Ladies Meet." Earl Larrimore, one of the Theater Guild's prized performers and Selena Royle's husband, did not play for a time, and so generally went around to take her home after the evening performance. Like many husbands waiting for their wives, he found a small nearby speakeasy, where the bartender was tough, but the beer good. In fact, in the course of several evenings, the two men became friendly and discussed things in general. But one evening, when Mr. Larrimore dropped in for his usual ten minute chat, he found some strangers at the bar and a rather silent host. The strangers were men of keen and hard glance. Their stare was fixed, cold and questioning. The bartender spoke up as one of them moved to block the door.

"I know him," he said. "Friend of mine. An actor."

The eyes of the visitors thawed and Mr. Larrimore was regarded with considerably more favor. This induced further volubility in his sponsor, the bartender.

"These lads," he explained, "are just in from Chicago and they like to know who's in a place with them. It just might be somebody unfriendly."

• • •

Mr. Larrimore trusted that they would perceive he was delighted to know them. He trusted they would have something to remove the dust from the larynx after their long trip. The whole atmosphere radiated good will. They asked him things concerning his profession. He didn't know just how far it was best to go in displaying a like interest. Finally he said:

"I am going to ask a favor of you gentlemen. In my next show I am supposed to play a gangster. I'd like to do it right; make it a real part. I want you, who have been around a lot, to advise me. How shall I make up, and what shall I wear?"

Seriously and critically, the visitors regarded him. They looked him over with the care a purchaser might bestow on a considered automobile. At last, they reached a decision and the apparent leader spoke for them all.

"Don't," he said earnestly, "change a thing."

re have been a lot of statistics ished on the Manhattan telephone ectory. They will tell you how much paper is required to print it, how many subscribers are listed in it and how much distance would be covered if the subscribers or the book, I forget which, were laid end to end. But they have left out some very important figures. In this Manhattan directory, for example, there is or are, be exact and as the case may be, 1 Rod, 5 Yard, 1 Foots, 3 Foot, 25 Foote, no Feet, but 2 Inch. Furthermore, there is, or are, 1 Arm, 9 Legg, 14 Finger and 34 Hand, not apparently including Charlie Hand, who is now living at the Biltmore. Many Hands make light work, which may be why the Democratic campaign went so well, although Charlie was the only Hand assigned to both Mr. Garner and Mr. Smith. There are a round dozen Head in the directory, a Braine and a Liver.

Owen Davis writes plays about as fast as Clarence Buddington Kelland writes short stories. That's record speed. George Jessel and a friend once met Mr. Davis on a morning walk, and the friend asked Jessel if he knew whether the playright was engaged in any work.

"When I saw him," said Jessel, "he had stooped over to tie a shoe lace. It just happened that he saw a pencil that somebody had dropped on the sidewalk, and before he straightened up he had written two new plays."

Billion a Year Poultry Trade of U. S. Is Shown

Chicago.—The United States produces and consumes 600,000,000 eggs annually and the chickens hatched each year number between 600,000,000 and 700,000,000. The poultry business of the entire nation last year amounted to a billion dollars.

These figures were presented at the annual fact-finding conference of the Institute of American Poultry Industries by Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore.

Eskimos Tending to Grow Another Rib

Washington.—The male Eskimo may be developing another rib.

This apparent case of evolution at work in mankind was reported by Dr. T. D. Stewart, physical anthropologist of the Smithsonian institution, who has just completed an examination of 200 skeletons of Eskimos, secured in recent expeditions in Alaska, and found that approximately 12 per cent had 25 instead of the customary 24 presacral vertebrae. The tendency seems to be toward a lengthening of the spinal column.
